DEMANDS BY AXIS THAT YUGOSLAVIA GIVE AID REFUSED

Britain and France Back Up Belgrade in Rejecting German-Italian Control of Arms, Rails.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Yugoslavia has refused German and Italian demands for use of her railroads and axis supervision of her economic and military centers in event of European war, it was learned tonight on the highest authority.

With the full support of Britain and France, Premier Dragisa Cvetkovich will fly to Italy tomorrow in a Yugoslav army bomber, it was said, to tell Italy's leaders bluntly that Yugoslavia is determined to maintain strict neutrality even if it is necessary to use her arms to do so.

The government issued orders to speed up construction of fortifications on the German frontier.

"Benevolent" Neutrality.

Germany and Italy were said to have described their proposals as a form of "benevolent" neutrality. Besides use of Yugoslavia's railroads and supervision of her economic and military centers in wartime, it was said the German-Italian demands would give them complete access to all Yugoslavia's war materials and foodstuffs in case of war.

Use of her railroads, besides giving them rail connections through the Yugoslav province of Slovenia, in addition to those they already have through Brenner Pass, would give them troop transportation in any advance toward Rumania and the east.

(While Premier Cvetkovich was preparing to journey to Italy, it was learned in Budapest tonight that Count Stephen Csooky, foreign minister of Hungary, northeastern neighbor of Yugoslavia, had arrived at Salzburg where he is a guest of German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.)

"Croat" Talks Collapse.

The premier's sudden decision to fly to Venice and Rome came after "indefinite" suspension of negotiations with Vladimir Machek, peasant leader, over demands of 5,000,000 Croats for home rule.

On August 1 he threatened to draw Croatia into secession if the "Belgrade clique" did not cease blocking his demands for autonomy. He admitted secession would "probably mean a world war," and acknowledged that the Croats probably would need outside protection, probably German.

"All right—Germany then—let her come in and make order," he said.

Despite such statements, however, Croats are not regarded as desiring outside intervention.

They constitute almost a third

Mussolini Sees 'Carmen'

While Italians Cheer Him

ROME, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini saw a performance of Carmen at Rome's outdoor opera tonight.

He was cheered upon taking a seat close to the stage just before the performance, and again at the end of the opening act.

His appearance at the opera followed a busy day at his desk.

5-Day Work Week For Fulton Convicts

Georgia's law which allows convicts a Mexican "two-hour siesta" in the middle of hot days has been changed into a five-day work week in Fulton county, the grand jury has found out in its delving into the goings-on in Fulton county.

Though the convicts still get an adequate rest period at lunch time, they do not work on Saturday or Sunday by ruling of the county commissioners.

The five-day week for convicts so aroused the interest of the grand jurors in contrast to their own six-day work week watching over the tax money which pays for the upkeep of the prisoners in the county's six prison camps, that the jury intends to delve further into prison camp operations.

Troy Chastain, county commissioner, who appeared before the grand jury voluntarily to discuss the general condition of the county, made the disclosure of the five-day week.

The Georgia law requires that convicts shall be worked constantly and diligently from sun-up to sun-down at hard labor as punishment for the crimes for which they were convicted in the courts.

A provision states that the convicts shall have two hours' rest starting at noon during the hottest weather but an attorney employed by the county yesterday could find no law that said they should be worked only five days each week in the summer.

"Do I understand that in Fulton county the convicts lay up in their bunks at the barracks and play cards and amuse themselves all day Saturdays while I have to work darned hard to earn enough money to pay my part of the taxes that pays for their upkeep?" one juror was understood to have asked, incredulously, when Commissioner Chastain made the admission that convicts only work five days.

Under the regulations now in effect in Fulton county, convicts do not work when it rains and neither are they required to work when the temperature goes below 32 degrees or on holidays.

Oscar Jones, who is in charge of prison camps in the north end of the county, confirmed yesterday the fact that the convicts work a five-day week.

LA FOLLETTE RAPS F.D.R.'S CRITICISM

Senator Says He Fails To See How Selling Arms Will Help Avert War.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's assertion that a congressional coalition had tied his hands from making any move for world peace by preventing action on the administration's neutrality revision program drew quick dissent today from Senator La Follette, Progressive, Wisconsin.

"I don't see what move we could make for peace that would involve the sale of arms, ammunition and implements of war, and that is the nub of the issue presented to congress," La Follette declared.

The Wisconsin senator, a supporter of much administration legislation, opposed the proposal of the President and Secretary of State Hull for repeal of the embargo clause of the present law which prohibits the sale of arms to belligerents.

Mr. Roosevelt said at a press conference at Hyde Park yesterday that a coalition of Republicans and 20 to 25 per cent of the Democrats in congress had gambled with the fate of 1,500,000,000 persons by delaying consideration of the neutrality subject. Because no action was taken, he said, he would be powerless to make an American move for peace.

"To take the position that the sale of arms would promote peace is to fly in the face of our whole experience leading up to our entry into the last war," La Follette said. "The President seems to be proceeding on the theory that we can have our cake and eat it too."

"The way to stay out of Europe is to stay out. If we attempt to influence the course of events prior to hostilities by throwing the American productive capacity on arms, ammunition and implements of war into the balance we would be gambling with the fate of 130,000,000 people who live in the United States, plus those who live in the western hemisphere."

"More important still," La Follette continued, "we would be staking the fate of American democracy on the turn of a card in a game of power politics which has been going on in Europe for 2,000 years."

Century Plant Plays Jack's Beanstalk; Hole Cut in Roof

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The Garfield Park Conservatory's 26-year-old century plant, which started to bloom in May, has gone out of bounds.

As it bloomed, its center stalk grew upward, 3 to 6 inches a day. The plant's now 30 feet high and workmen cut a hole in the roof yesterday to give it room.

FRENCH MINISTRY ACCUSED OF AIDING FILM SMUGGLERS

Diplomatic Pouches Used To Evade Customs Duty Totalling Over $1,200, U.S. Grand Jury Charges

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The French ministry of foreign affairs was accused in a federal grand jury presentment today of permitting its diplomatic pouches to be used for smuggling commercial travel films into the United States.

At the request of the jury, a certified copy was sent by United States Attorney John T. Cahill to Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

The grand jury's investigation came as the result of the arrest on March 20 of Andre De La Varre, a commercial photographer, who was accused of sending in 37,000 feet of film taken in Algeria, France, Holland, Hungary, Morocco, Switzerland and Tunis.

The film arrived on the French liner Paris last January. De La Varre has since paid civil fines and penalties totaling $4,459. Duty on the film would have been $1,200 to $1,400, government sources estimated.

Named in the presentment as having aided De La Varre avoid payment of the duties were the French government tourist bureau, the French consulate in this city, the French Line, its general manager, Morin De Linclays, and eight other individuals.

French Line officials declined comment and said De Linclays was in the west on business. The consulate said the matter was one for the embassy in Washington to comment on.

The presentment remarked that friendly relations exist between the United States and France and held that other action, save that of notifying Secretary Hull, seemed inadvisable.

GEORGIANS CLOSE CAPITAL PARLEYS

State Heating Plant Funds 'Assured'; Tobacco Price Fight Fails for 1939.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Governor Rivers and his official party turned homeward tonight, virtually assured of funds for a proposed central heating plant for state institutions in Milledgeville, and with word for Georgia tobacco farmers that little hope exists for improved prices for this year's crop.

The Governor and members of the state hospital authority reported a successful conference with RFC officials on federal financing of the Milledgeville project. Officials of the RFC said the Georgia chief executive had been asked to file a formal application to cover financing of the project upon his return to the state. It was indicated the project would be approved in due course.

SEVENTY-FOUR DAYS WITHOUT AUTO DEATHS

Following the afternoon conference of growers and buyers of flue cured tobacco, Governor Rivers expressed doubt that anything could be accomplished to improve prices and thus help south Georgia producers, most of whose crop already has been marketed.

Growers pinned their hopes for better prices on sharp curtailment of production next year, with quota restrictions on marketing. They agreed to wait until later in the year, when a curtailment program for next season has been formulated.

Members of Party.

Accompanying Governor Rivers to Washington were Ivan Allen Jr., of Atlanta, secretary; Sheriff Sid Howell, of Blakely, vice-chairman, and John C. Lewis, of Spartanburg, attorney-director, all of the state hospital authority, and S. Marvin Griffin, one of the Governor's aides. All returned south tonight except Mr. Allen, who went to Pittsburgh to attend the national meeting of representatives of Young Democrat Clubs.

It was a joyous reunion at Fulton tower last night when Odie Fluker and his wife learned that Governor Rivers had commuted his death sentence to life imprisonment. Fluker was convicted of the murder of Eddie Guyol, Atlanta lottery operator, in April, 1935, and has been sentenced to the electric chair five times and reprieved five times since 1936.

ATLANTAN JAILED ON BIGAMY COUNT

Second Mrs. W. L. Turnipseed Also Lodged Behind Bars in Macon.

Love of a 44-year-old wife for an errand groom of 27—"he'll be 28 in just a few days," she declared last night—is not strong enough to arouse compassion for the other woman, or for the husband.

In consequence, W. L. Turnipseed, of Atlanta, and 29-year-old Jessie Patricia O'Neal Turnipseed, of Chattanooga, were lodged in the Macon jail last night by Deputy Sheriffs Walter Walton and Otis Stokes after their arrest in Chattanooga on indictments which charged bigamy to the husband and "knowingly marrying a man who already was married to someone else" to the second wife.

The first wife, Mrs. Ann Turnipseed, of Atlanta, who married the brown-haired, brown-eyed young salesman in April, 1935, revealed last night that so great had been her effort to retain her home intact that she went to Chattanooga June 16 after word had reached her of another woman in her husband's life.

Records show that the second marriage had been performed by the Bibb county ordinary, in Macon, July 17. Turnipseed was declared to have said he had obtained a divorce from his first wife on August 12, 1936.

Officials at the Macon jail said neither Turnipseed nor his second wife would talk about the case. Both were cheerful and apparently unworried. They will be held in cells until trials are held unless fairly large bail is arranged, it was added.

The second Mrs. Turnipseed was a guest of the first Mrs. Turnipseed and her husband briefly, in 1937, after a party at which Turnipseed saw the young Chattanooga woman for the first time. Acquaintance was renewed, when Turnipseed went to Chattanooga early last January to accept proffered employment.

1,000 Free Grid Tickets

A Game Bared in LSU Quiz

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 9.—(AP)—The probe of Louisiana State University has extended to free football tickets which an investigator termed "petty graft."

J. Fair Hardin, special assistant attorney general conducting the Parish (county) grand jury investigation of university affairs, said 1,000 free tickets had been given for each L. S. U. game, mostly to state and university officials.

"It's just a species of petty graft," Hardin said. They all make good salaries. Their getting free tickets is just part of the whole system out here."

'IRRECONCILABLE' SITUATIONS CITED; JOHNS DISAGREES

Governor Gives 5-Times Doomed Prisoner Permanent Respite Before Entraining at Capital.

Odie Fluker, five times sentenced to the electric chair for the mysterious murder of Eddie Guyol, Atlanta numbers racket operator, who was slain in April, 1935, now is removed permanently from the shadow of death in the electric chair.

His sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by Governor Rivers in Washington last night on "recommendation of the state parole authority, two members of which based their findings on "irreconcilable situations" brought out in the circumstantial evidence. The third member voted against clemency.

Fluker Still Stoical.

Stoical calm which has characterized his three years in jail marked Fluker's reaction to the news, first carried to him by a reporter for The Constitution.

He expressed disappointment at the "split verdict" returned by the parole commission but declared he was "a little more encouraged" by the action of the Governor.

"Will Prove Innocence."

"I believe now that my innocence will be established," he said, "and that eventually the guilty person or persons will be brought to trial."

The commutation marked another step in the long fight which has been waged by Defense Attorney Russell G. Turner since Fluker's conviction in November, 1936. Last night he expressed "extreme gratification" at what he termed successfully completing "the first step" in his efforts to establish Fluker's innocence and declared the fight would be continued.

Rivers' Statement.

Governor Rivers asserted his decision, made public just before he entrained for Atlanta, was based entirely on the recommendation of the state parole board.

"I am in accord with the majority report of the parole board that the evidence against Fluker is not sufficient to sustain a death penalty. Two of the three members of the parole board stated their action was based on conflicting circumstantial evidence, irreconcilable situations and the character of the witnesses testifying against the defendant. Accordingly, I have decided the death sentence should be commuted to life imprisonment."

The majority report was signed by Chairman Clem E. Rainey and Commissioner V. L. Stanley. A third commissioner, Judge G. A. Johns, wrote across the recommendation: "I regret that under

"I keep thinking of the public as the ones to be served, and so forget to keep my political fences in repair."

JURY TAMPERING EVIDENCE SOUGHT

U. S. Pushes Louisiana Probe Into Oil, Tax Fraud.
NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The government today used extra effort to find evidence of jury tampering while driving forward on a wide front against fraud in oil and income taxes.

O. John Rogge, assistant attorney general, said:
"Right now we are concentrating on an inquiry into tampering with the jury which acquitted A. L. Shushan on income tax evasion charges in 1939."
Shushan, trusted lieutenant of the late Huey P. Long, who named the New Orleans airport after him, was brought to trial shortly after the political dictator was shot to death in the state capital.

Rogge explained that "tampering" could involve bribery.

George for 'Party's Choice'

Senator Refuses To Say Whether Pledge Includes F. D. R.; Garner 'Leading Candidate.'

Senator George stopped in Atlanta long enough yesterday to say he would support anyone nominated by the Democratic convention for president and that Vice President John Nance Garner was "undoubtedly the leading candidate."

Georgia's senior senator declined to say if his pledge of support to the Democratic nomination included President Roosevelt.

Before leaving Washington, however, he had expressed opposition to a third term for Roosevelt "under any circumstances or conditions." The President was unsuccessful last year in his attempt to "purge" George in the Democratic state primary.

Accompanied by his wife, Senator George was en route from Washington to their home in Vienna.

Although he listed Garner as the leading candidate for the nomination, George added that convention strength also would be shown by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Postmaster General James A. Farley, Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt, "and possibly others."

"I think," he said, "the convention will nominate a good Democrat—probably a liberal, for the Democratic party now is a liberal party."

Looks to Next Congress.
Referring to the next session of congress, he predicted the President would "retain very strong control and direction of congressional action" in most legislation. He expressed the belief, however, that congress "has reassessed its own position, particularly in reference to spending for spending purposes—for pump priming."

Remaining in Atlanta only a few minutes, Senator and Mrs. George left immediately for Vienna. He said he would remain there "about two weeks" but explained his plans thereafter were uncertain. His Washington offices, he said, will remain open.

Senator and Mrs. George are shown as they arrived at the Terminal station en route from Washington to their home in Vienna. With congress adjourned, the two are looking forward to a vacation.

Bumper Crop of Plans for Revenue Ready for Assembly Extra Session

While 'Hell-Bent' Edwards Raps Efforts To Increase State Funds, Legislators Prepare Bills for Sales Tax, Luxury Tax, High Gas Tax, Among Others.

A record crop of revenue bills—ranging from measures tightening existing tax collections to varied proposals for tapping new income sources—appeared in the office yesterday as Georgia's legislators awaited Governor Rivers' call for an extra session.

While at Valdosta criticism came from Representative H. B. Edwards, of Lowndes, administration foe, Speaker Roy W. Harris arranged for a series of bills carrying out recommendations of the economy committee.

At least a dozen of these measures were expected to reach the house hopper on opening day—possibly September 5 or 6—and observers ticked off a number of other revenue proposals.

New Taxes Proposed.
They include a three per cent sales tax, a luxury tax, a soft-drinks levy, a hike in the present six-cent per gallon gasoline tax, and a utilities levy, which also are likely to be offered.

Seek $10,000,000 More.
The problem of the assembly will revolve principally around ways and means of increasing general fund income—now estimated at $14,280,000 yearly—to $24,280,940, the amount which would be required if the present $21,000,000 appropriation act, plus expanded requests of the welfare and education departments were paid in full.

The total demand for additional tax dollars would be equivalent to a boost of more than 70 per cent in Georgia's general treasury income.

Differs Over Needs.
In its final report, the economy committee estimated tightening of existing tax laws and pegging of gasoline and motor vehicle taxes would yield a total of $21,148,668.30 or enough to support existing services without new taxes or a hike in present levies.

This contention, however, was disputed by Revenue Commissioner T. Grady Head, and at least one administration leader in the legislature branded the proposal "a Midsummer Night's Dream."

HELL-BENT EDWARDS LASHES TAX SESSION.
VALDOSTA, Ga., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Representative H. B. (Hell-Bent) Edwards, foe of tax legislation in the last general assembly, today assailed plans for a special revenue session next month and declared "the economy committee's report shows that enough taxes are paid to run the state if extravagance, waste and high salaries were reduced."

The representative listed "a number of taxes that each citizen of Georgia is subject to pay, as follows:

"1. State ad valorem tax; 2. county ad valorem tax; 3. city ad valorem tax; 4. income tax; 5. business license tax; 6. special occupational tax; 7. gasoline tax; 8. kerosene tax; 9. motor oil tax;

he "rather expected" ultimate adoption of a sales tax.

FLOOR LEADER FAVORS GEORGIA 'HATCH BILL'

Ardent advocacy of a "state Hatch" bill was voiced yesterday by House Floor Leader Frank Gross of Stephens county.

If modeled after the measure pending in the Alabama legislature, such a bill would curb political activity of state, county and city employees and officials.

Gross said he hoped Governor E. D. Rivers would include both a civil service and a "Hatch" bill in his call for the September special session of the Georgia legislature.

Mrs. Homer S. Cummings Dies; Cut Bright Swath as Cabinet Wife

Been Ill Since She and Ex-Attorney General Returned to Capital in March.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Homer S. Cummings, wife of the former attorney general, died tonight at Ruthven, the charming home overlooking Rock Creek park where she built her reputation as a gay and original cabinet hostess.

She had been ill of high blood pressure since she and Cummings returned from a Florida vacation March 24. An unfavorable heart condition developed July 30 to make her condition precarious.

Quick wit and keen intelligence helped Cecilia Cummings cut a bright path across the capital's social scene in the nearly six years that her husband was in the New Deal cabinet.

She refused to have a social secretary—said it would cramp her style. At small dinner parties—12 was her guest limit—she invited New Dealers, old dealers, artists, authors, actors and preachers, then mixed them all up to make an argument.

She was born in Darien, Conn., the daughter of the late William Warren Waterbury. She studied at Columbia University and the New School of Social Research in New York city, and later at the Sorbonne and the Alliance Francaise in Paris.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS START FIREWORKS
Hatch Act Rapped, Effort To 'Buy' Election Charged on Convention Eve.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The nation's organized Young Democrats made ready today for their fourth annual convention tomorrow to the accompaniment of forecasts of a "solid front" against the Hatch political practices act and charges and denials the president of the organization was being "bought."

More than 2,000 members had registered at headquarters tonight. The keynote speaker is Senator Claude Pepper, of Florida, staunch New Dealer.

President Pitt Tyson Maner, of Montgomery, Ala., said he had not found a single delegate "who is for the Hatch act" banning political activities by most federal workers. Maner stood on his previous statement calling the act "un-American."

Convention fireworks were set off by Harry Shank, Columbus, Ohio, one of four candidates for president of the Young Democrats, who charged the Illinois and New York delegations had spent $10,000 legally "buying" the election for Homer Mat Adams, 28-year-old Illinois state official.

"That's bunk," was Adams' reply.

ACCREDITING BODY PLAYED IN CARROLL
Dropping of Schools Termed 'Unfair' by Board.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION
CARROLLTON, Ga., Aug. 9.—The Carroll county board of education, which Dr. E. G. Kirby, of Bowdon, is chairman, was on record today as condemning the recent action of the Georgia Accrediting Commission in dropping five Carroll county schools for failure to operate the required number of days.

Dr. Kirby is also president of the Georgia Association of Superintendents and Board Members.

The county board termed the action "unfair, since the local schools nor the county were in any way responsible for the financial condition that made it impossible for these schools to operate full time."

The board's resolutions also urged that "this action should be rescinded, and these schools should be given their former rating at once."

The accrediting commission recently accepted Whitesburg on the accrediting list, but dropped Rockville, Villa Rica, Temple, Bowdon and Mount Zion.

TROPICAL STORM TO FAN BAHAMAS
Disturbance of 'Mild Intensity,' Bureau Reports.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 9.—(AP)—The Bahamas Islands probably will feel the effects of a mild tropical storm early tomorrow, the weather bureau said tonight.

The bureau said the disturbance was still of "mild intensity" and was central at 7 p. m. about 600 miles east-southeast of Miami and still moving west-northwestward.

The highest winds so far recorded, the bureau said, are 40 miles an hour. The center was moving at 10 to 12 miles an hour.

"Indications are that it will affect the eastern Bahamas early Thursday and cautions are advised against rather heavy squalls in the Bahamas area the next 24 to 36 hours," the advisory said.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES
This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, even those that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or steady passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Dorr's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 million of kidney trouble sufferers cleanse waste from your blood. Get Dorr's Pills.

Head Defends Gas Tax Unit

Reveals State's Revenue From Petroleum Levies Increased $866,000 in First Seven Months.

Georgia's revenue from gasoline taxes has increased approximately $866,000 during the first seven months of this year as compared with the same period of 1938, Revenue Commissioner T. Grady Head revealed yesterday and estimated the eight months' report will show an increase of a million dollars.

The large increase in gas tax receipts indicate there might have been a "leak" in the system of collection of the tax last year, he said.

Head said that some months ago he saw that Georgia's gas tax collections were not as high as they should be in comparison to the tax collected by the neighboring state of North Carolina. A drive to collect the taxes and force "bootleg" gasoline off the market was begun four months ago.

Defends Department.

Answering charges that the revenue department was falling down on its job of collecting the gasoline tax, Commissioner Head issued the following statement:

"Under the heading 'Inquiry Launched in the Bootlegging of Gas in Georgia,' appearing in a recent issue of The Constitution, the article is concluded with the statement: 'Holcomb said yesterday a bill has been drawn to be introduced at the special session of the legislature which would set up a non-political gasoline authority to be composed of representatives of the major companies, which in effect would give the industry the authority to do its own policing in collaboration with the Revenue Department,' and this statement is followed by a charge that the Department of Revenue has not audited the books of the larger dealers in 15 years.

"In connection with the question of audits, Mr. Womack, in charge of the gas tax unit of the Department of Revenue, makes this statement:

"Regarding our handling of the audits of the major companies. We have a form of monthly report that covers in complete detail every item appearing thereon. These monthly reports are audited by myself each month as to the questionable items that may appear therein are investigated by assigning one or more auditors immediately to inquire into such questionable items. This eliminates a long-drawn-out audit of a great mass of records that could mean nothing more than consuming time auditing routine details. The system followed, in my opinion, gives the best obtainable, considering the limited force with which we have to operate.

Collections Listed.

"The gas tax collections in the calendar year 1937 were $19,303,433.13. In the calendar year 1938 the collections were $19,630,315.37, or an increase of $326,882.24. In the first seven months of the calendar year 1939 our collections are $11,964,863.20, or an increase over the corresponding period of 1938 of $863,083.42.

"For the last four months the Revenue Department has been making a most careful and thorough investigation into the gasoline industry in Georgia. Our investigation has not actually uncovered a table-spoonful of what could be denominated 'bootleg' gasoline.

"The inference of Mr. Holcomb's statements is that the State Department of Revenue is not capable of handling the gasoline tax collections, and that this business should be turned over to the major oil companies in this state. His inferences are not supported by facts, and if he is in possession of any facts that will support the proposition of any bootleg gasoline in Georgia, it is his duty as a citizen of this state to reveal that information to the Department of Revenue, and not undertake to break down the constituted authority of this state for the purpose of collecting the state's revenue and turn the business entirely over to the industry charged with paying the tax. There should be no exceptions made. If the gasoline industry is to take control of the tax situation with reference to gasoline, then we should turn over to the liquor industry the business of regulating itself, to the beer industry the business of regulating the wine industry and the payment of tax, and to the corporations and citizens generally, the business of paying income, ad valorem, and other taxes now levied by law.

"Mr. Holcomb says 'on the basis of a nation-wide survey the annual loss by bootlegging is placed at 10 per cent.' He does not state who made the nation-wide survey:

he does not explain how it was made, and he gives no facts to support the proposition that the Revenue Department of Georgia is not collecting all taxes due on gasoline.

"The Revenue Department is not limited by law as to the number of employees in any unit. We are limited by an overall operation expense. We arrange our personnel as we believe the circumstances and facts justify. We believe that we have rendered a faithful service to the citizens of this state, but we are open to any facts that Mr. Holcomb, or any other citizen can give us whereby we can increase the efficiency of this department. We want facts and not wild guesses or imaginations."

Board of Regents' Head Bares How Purchase Was Made, Withholds Source.

Marion Smith, chairman of the state board of regents, announced yesterday that the original permanent constitution of the Confederate States of America was purchased by the regents with funds made available by private sources.

"In addition to getting a price about one-fifth of what anyone else would have been required to pay, we also obtained a delay in the payment of the purchase price for three years," he said.

"We have assurance from a private source which we are not now at liberty to disclose, that funds will be available from such private source for the payment of this purchase price so that this great relic of southern history will be a present to the university system and to the state of Georgia."

Fulton Opens Way for Malaria War

County Commissioners Accept Responsibility Required by U. S. for Health Control Project.

Fulton county yesterday paved the way for an immediate start on malaria control projects extending for approximately 25 miles along creek beds as a necessary health measure.

Meeting in special session, the county commission passed resolutions indemnifying the state department of Public Health from any damages to individuals or private property in carrying out the program.

Dr. Roy W. McGee, county health officer, said the expenditure will amount to thousands of dollars within the next year, but will insure the health of our citizens against malaria.

80 Men to Do Job.

Through the co-operation of WPA, it was announced the county has eliminated 44 large breeding ponds this year, and under the new schedule of work 80 men will be given employment in curbing malaria in unincorporated areas.

The federal administration, as a condition precedent to malaria control activities, demands that the state indemnify the federal government against consequential damages and the state in turn passes the necessity for similar guarantees along to the counties.

That was the reason for the special commission meeting yesterday, presided over, in the absence from the city of Chairman Ed L. Almond, by Troy G. Chastain, vice chairman.

Drain 44 Ponds.

Thus far this year the county has drained 22,230 lineal feet of marsh land, eliminated the 44 large ponds, reclaimed 448 acres of excellent farm land, cleared 28,366 additional feet in preparation for draining and removed the threat of malaria in outlying districts. This has cost the federal government $12,469, to which the county has added another $2,000.

Project No. 1, in old Milton county, has had 7,250 lineal feet of hand ditching and 2,600 feet of grade line work since the first of the year. This is a joint WPA and county project and affects the tributaries of Big creek.

Project No. 2, in the southeastern section of the county, affects Poole creek and its tributaries in the Forest Park road section. It has had 7,980 feet of work, done exclusively by WPA.

Unit No. 3, set up as a joint WPA and county project, has had 3,400 feet of work in the Camp creek area.

Resume at Once.

Work on these projects was practically at a standstill prior to the assurances given yesterday by the commission, but county sanitary engineers yesterday said it will be resumed immediately, and that other projects will be added.

Although definite plans have not yet been completed, Dr. McGee asserted that new projects will be sponsored for Bee, Utoy, Indian and Fox Creek creek sections, and that more than 25 miles of ditching will be necessary before the undertakings are finished.

Under the new malaria control project set-up, the county must provide 18 per cent of the cost. County costs will be $692.50 a month while the federal government will expend $3,154.72 monthly.

Here's How This Youngster Saved His Life

This is a picture of a boy saving his life by licking a lollipop—a nice red one. The little fellow, Donald Martin Jr., of San Francisco, swallowed a sedative by mistake and the only way he could be kept from falling into a fatal sleep was to find something that would make him fight it off—lollipops did!

San Francisco, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Two-year-old Donald Martin tonight owed his life to his liking for red lollipops that kept him from succumbing to the death sleep of a strong sedative he had mistaken for candy.

While Donald's mother was busy about the house yesterday, the toddling youngster grabbed a handful of white "candies" from a glass jar and ate them. Mrs. Martin discovered the jar contained a strong sedative and ran screaming to the telephone.

"We must keep him awake," warned the ambulance doctor. "Slap him, tickle him, talk to him, do anything, do everything."

The child, however, was too sleepy to be amused as his physical senses became paralyzed by the sedative. His father raced to a near-by store and brought back a load of toys. Donald merely shoved them aside and snuggled down to sleep.

He was slapped sharply and massaged, but Donald continued to slip into the stupor. At the hospital, Dr. Thomas Fitzpatrick had an idea. He sent a nurse from the room on a hurried errand.

The nurse returned in a few moments and Dr. Fitzpatrick pulled a bright red lollipop from the little paper sack. Donald's eyelids snapped.

"Oh boy," he cried. "Gimmy." Donald ate 12 lollipops during the next four hours.

"Why, I never saw such a wide awake child," chuckled the doctor.

And tonight Donald's weary, red-eyed but happy, mother sat by his hospital bed and told her boy there were plenty more lollipops where those came from.

SUIT FILED TO HALT TVA-UTILITY DEAL

Two Minority Bondholders Seek Injunction To Restrict Sale.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Two minority bondholders filed suit in the New York supreme court today to block the TVA-Commonwealth & Southern deal for sale of Tennessee Electric Power Company properties in a dispute over the price to be paid for the subsidiary's bonds.

On behalf of John H. G. Franco and Robert Franklin, minority bondholders, an injunction was requested to restrain the City Bank Farmers Trust Company, the trustee, from delivering a satisfaction of $39,790,800 face value of Tennessee Electric Power first and refunding mortgage bonds unless the bank receives sufficient funds to pay the call price of $105 for the bonds.

The complaint charges the Tennessee company, controlled by Commonwealth & Southern, was deliberately creating a "default" to permit a clause to be invoked for payment of the bonds at $100 instead of retiring them at the call price.

It was alleged this procedure was adopted to permit Commonwealth & Southern to get about $2,000,000 more than it otherwise would have gotten out of the deal.

Wendell L. Willkie, president of Commonwealth & Southern, said the suit would not "in the slightest interfere" with the scheduled transfer of the properties.

"The charges are ridiculous," he added.

NAMES OF LIVING OFF L.S.U. BUILDINGS

Include That of Ex-Governor Leche.

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Removal of the name of former Governor Richard W. Leche from all Louisiana State University buildings was authorized tonight by the school's board of supervisors.

Specifically, the board resolved that all existing buildings and structures now named for any living persons have such names removed therefrom and that said buildings be renamed by this board in due course.

The name of the former Governor, who resigned as chief executive six weeks ago and now is under federal indictment, appears more often than that of any other person on the campus buildings.

Will Push Fluker Case

RUSSELL TURNER.

FLUKER SENTENCE COMMUTED TO LIFE

my view of the evidence I cannot concur in the findings of my colleagues."

Attorney Turner repeatedly has charged that Fluker was convicted on framed evidence and that "two well-known underworld characters and a police officer" were responsible. The name of Mrs. Myrtle Guyol, widow of the slain man, also frequently has been linked with the shooting.

Mrs. Guyol Key Witness

Mrs. Guyol was the principal state's witness during the trial ending with Fluker's conviction November 7, 1936.

She was sitting with her husband in their car at the home on Pelham road on the night of the murder and identified Fluker in a police lineup.

It has been the contention of the defense that she was shown Fluker's picture before being called on to make the identification.

Turner Confident

"We have just begun to fight," was Turner's comment. "We know who the guilty parties are and there will be no relenting until the case is cleared up completely and the proper parties are brought to justice. We feel that those who possibly could help solve the mystery are involved in the conspiracy and consequently there is a reluctance on the part of witnesses to testify to the real truth. However, we are confident it will be solved eventually and Fluker's innocence definitely established."

Mrs. Fluker, who has steadfastly maintained her faith in her husband's innocence, expressed herself as being "overjoyed" at the Governor's decision and confident that he eventually would be entirely cleared of the murder charge.

"Naturally I'm more than pleased that the Governor followed the recommendation of the parole board," she said last night. "Of course we both had hoped for a complete vindication but this at least is a step in the right direction and will enable us to continue our fight for his freedom."

Doubt Expressed by Many In History of Fluker Case

Eddie Guyol, long known as a "big shot" in the Atlanta lottery racket, was killed while sitting in his car in the driveway of his home on Pelham road on the night of April 23, 1935.

Mrs. Guyol, who was in the car with him at the time, testified a man came up with a gun, said "You've got it coming to you, Eddie," and fired. Guyol was pronounced dead on arrival at Grady hospital.

Approximately one year later, Odie Fluker, while serving a seven-year sentence on a robbery charge at Dallas, Ga., was brought to Atlanta in connection with the investigation.

"Held Incommunicado." Defense counsel asserted he was held incommunicado at the city jail for more than three months and then transferred to Fulton Tower. Fluker steadfastly maintained his innocence, declaring that he had never seen Guyol and had no reason to kill him.

In June, 1936, Fluker was indicted by the Fulton county grand jury and in November he was tried in Fulton county superior court before Judge James C. Davis of the Stone Mountain circuit.

He was convicted after a four-day trial and sentenced to die in the electric chair the following month.

A new trial motion immediately was filed by Defense Counsel Russell G. Turner, citing alleged errors of law and claiming newly discovered evidence. The motion was denied by the trial judge and the case was taken to the state supreme court.

Sentence Upheld.

There the judgment of the lower court was affirmed on the ground that the defendant, by the exercise of due diligence, could have presented the "new evidence" at the trial.

Fluker was resentenced and there followed a never-remitting fight on the part of his attorney to establish his innocence and gain his freedom. Three times temporary respites were granted by Governor Rivers and three times Fluker heard the court sentence him to die in the chair.

The next step was an appeal to the state prison and parole board which requested and obtained from the Governor a sixth respite to allow time for consideration of the case.

Labor Leaders Help

The petition to the parole board cited a letter to Governor Rivers, signed by George F. Fay, of New York, secretary and treasurer of the Upholsters' International Union, in which he stated that Fluker was attending a labor meeting in Birmingham at the time of the Guyol murder.

Along with the Fay letter was another from George Googe, southern representative of the A. F. of L., in which he described Fay's word as "unimpeachable."

Further testimony in behalf of Fluker was offered by Judge Paul S. Etheridge, who sat on the bench with the presiding judge and described himself as "shocked" at the guilty verdict.

"The evidence in this case, as presented in the court room, was not sufficient, in my opinion, to justify a conviction," Judge Etheridge declared.

Ten of the 12 jurors who voted the conviction joined in the appeal for clemency, most of them asserting that the new evidence convinced them a "grave injustice" had been committed. Of the two who did not join in the appeal at the time the petition was filed one was seriously ill and the other questioned his authority to change his opinion.

MISSISSIPPI PICKS JOHNSON, CONNER

Pair To Vie in Runoff Election for Governor; Five Candidates Eliminated.

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 9.—(AP) Paul B. Johnson, of Hattiesburg, former congressman, tonight pushed his lead over former Governor M. S. Conner, his second Democratic gubernatorial primary opponent, to nearly 20,000 as late returns dribbled in from yesterday's first primary.

Nearly complete tabulations in the seven-man race from 1,291 of the state's 1,660 precincts gave Johnson 84,343; Conner, 64,744; State Representative Thomas L. Bailey 48,443; Lester Franklin 24,879; Lieutenant Governor J. B. Snider 19,475; Dr. Mark W. Gantt, of Meridian, 4,802, and George P. Ritchey, 3,781.

Meanwhile political trading on the grandest scale ever known in Mississippi appeared in the offing as the two first primary winners started bidding for support of the eliminated candidates in the second primary, August 29, and it seemed likely the repercussions would touch the national political scheme.

Not only is there sure to be bargaining for the support of these runners-up in the balloting but the picture will be drawn to include the state's two United States senators, Bilbo and Pat Harrison.

WIFE SHOT, MAN HELD.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 9.—(AP) I. N. Argo, 61, who told his wife he was "going to shoot her if she left me for another man," was arrested today after his wife had been found critically wounded in their suburban home.

WORKERS' ALLIANCE PLANS NATIONAL DRIVE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The Workers Alliance announced tonight a national campaign in behalf of what the Alliance said was 650,000 WPA workers who would be dropped because of the new order requiring a furlough after 18 months on relief rolls.

Labor Day demonstrations, mass meetings and parades will be used to call attention to the situation, the Alliance said. As part of a "national job unit," David Lasser, Alliance president, said unemployed would be taken "not only to industrial plants, but also to newspapers which urged WPA cuts, to the congressmen who voted for them and to the Chamber of Commerce that agitated for them."

STATE BOARD URGED TO DO ACCREDITING

Fight Forecast on School Listings When Education Body Meets.

A fight to get the state board of education to take over the duties of accrediting high schools was predicted for tomorrow when the board meets in monthly session at 10 o'clock in the state capitol.

The move is being pushed by the 57 state schools which were recently dropped from the accredited list by the accrediting board because the schools, due to financial difficulties, had not remained open a sufficient number of days last year.

With the board doing the accrediting, the authorities of these schools feel, account would be taken of circumstances over which they have no control, it was said. The school board also will allot school teachers for the various state-supported schools tomorrow.

BUSINESS WOMEN ALSO BORROW MONEY WHEN THE PURSE IS EMPTY

"It's over a month ago, Mr. Kemp, when you gave me a short interview on women borrowing money. Please tell me more about it for today's paper."

"Certainly, Mr. Reporter. But first, understand this, when I say MAN in an interview it is, in a broad sense, referring to both men and women. Women have the same problems as men. Food, clothing, shelter are problems in the life of both. So are sickness and death. Likewise comforts and enjoyments. Look... here's an announcement which reads

$50 to $1,000 for Women!

"That was in a letter from the Industrial Loan people. They realize the issues which confront women are the same as in men. That's why they invite women to call and obtain a loan if money is needed. Hundreds of women are taking advantage of that offer. Most reasons are to pay off old obligations and be square with the world again. To buy new wearing apparel to replace worn-out or passe garments is another reason.

"There are also other good reasons, Mr. Reporter, why women often need money badly. Many help clothe and feed their brothers and sisters, sons or daughters. Or to pay tuition fees so loved ones can get an education. Or to help defray the expenses of a relative's operation, medical attention, etc."

"The Industrial Loan people take all this into consideration, and make a woman's visit to their offices friendly, brief and satisfactory. They don't keep the ladies waiting. They don't pry into their private or business affairs. And the loan is made without unnecessary red-tape, in privacy, without any consideration other than personal endorsement or common collateral.

"Tell woman newspaper readers, also, that the Industrial Loan rates are honestly low; that the monthly terms are more favorable; that the date of the note's maturity will be decided in their favor. These are facts, Mr. Reporter, as you well know from observation and experience."

This is one of a series of advertisements covering interviews with Mr. Kemp which appear regularly in this paper. Mr. Kemp is executive vice president of the Industrial Loan & Security Co., at 221 Grant Building. Visit Mr. Kemp. He will gladly advise you on all money matters.

Alternate Wager

President Roosevelt, in his press statement of Tuesday, accused congress of "wagering" with the well-being of 150,000,000 human beings and with the livelihood of 20,000,000 Americans, because it refused to enact, in the first place, the neutrality legislation he had requested and, secondly, had defeated his spending-lending and rehousing bills.

There is a distinct inference, in his remarks, that congress is not qualified to use sound judgment either in international or domestic affairs and, by corollary, that the administration alone should be entrusted with decisions as to what is best.

Which inference, if put into practice, is neither more nor less than a fascist form of government under a dictator. A benign dictator if you will, but a dictator nevertheless.

Had congress acted otherwise than it did on the bills in question, enacting them into law, there would still have been a wager. This, however, would have been a wager on the other side of the argument, a wager to the effect that the President and his advisers could be trusted to so handle foreign affairs a new war would be avoided and, in any event, this country would be able to keep out, if any war did start. Likewise a wager that the New Deal theory of spending and spending and spending—to say nothing of spending—is the proper prescription for the nation's economic ills.

The fact is, of course, that all the government spending, all the "pump-priming," has failed to reduce unemployment or restore the nation to the condition of prosperity it so eagerly desires. On the other hand, the spending program has left the nation facing an awesome financial deficit and has increased both taxes and regulations on business to the point where private industry and private enterprise has been hobbled.

Congress merely preferred, in this instance, to wager on the ability of private American enterprise, once the restrictions and burdens were made easier, to solve a problem that government spending has failed to solve.

A wager, yes. But who shall say the congress did not choose wisely in placing its wager? Perhaps, after all, government is not able to successfully do a job which should, in America, be one for private undertaking. Perhaps, after all, business can succeed better than government in solving unemployment. It seems, at least, the wager is justified when the results of New Deal efforts through eight years are studied.

Seeking Statehood

Roy T. Davis, for many years an American minister to Latin America and a recognized authority on Latin-American problems, recently made a first-hand study of Puerto Rico as the "Cultural Link of the Americas." He returned with some opinions worth considering. For instance, that home-rule provisions for Puerto Rico are well advanced, but that Puerto Rico should have enlarged and more effective representation in congress.

In this connection Mr. Davis points out the territories have a resident commissioner in Washington, with a desk in the house of representatives—but no vote. He calls attention to the fact that both Puerto Rico and Hawaii are advocating statehood. In both, he continued, the people have shown their loyalty to the United States and a genuine capacity for statehood.

The step toward statehood seems to be a difficult one to take, however, said Mr. Davis. Agitation and argument may continue for many years before the people of the mainland are convinced it is fully justified. In the meantime? Mr. Davis answers by recommending modernization of the colonial administrative setup, and a broadening to give citizens of the islands actual experience in national affairs. Mr. Davis makes the good point that Puerto Rican and Hawaiian public officials differ very little from political leaders in most of the states.

At last examination the tail of the British lion looked like a phone cord in a household of six girls.

A garment trade item reports a banner summer for manufacturers of sports attire. A slacks season in this line is considered good.

Youth now is told to protect itself against organization of the aged for public handouts. In these upside down times, a child mustn't spoil his grandmother.

"For closing with an armed prowler and putting him to rout, Clark Gable is laughed at by his wife." Let's have a retake of that, folks, and see if we can't improve the timing.

Bootlegged Gasoline

The statement of the Georgia Association of Petroleum Dealers, to the effect that "bootlegged gasoline" is costing Georgia $2,000,000 or more in lost revenue, comes as a shock to all who have been concerned over the financial problems of the state.

Such a sum would go far toward filling the gap between school teachers' salaries and available revenue, for instance. It might not close that gap completely, but it would at least make the troubles of the forthcoming special session of the legislature much less onerous.

If the statement is correct and, considering its source, the dealers themselves, it is reasonable to presume that it is accurate, there is this large sum merely waiting on proper collection by the state, which would not take a single additional cent out of the pockets of the automobile owners or taxpayers. For the gasoline tax is paid, anyway, by the consumer and failure of the state to collect merely means that the money stays in the pockets of unscrupulous bootleggers of gasoline. It does neither the state nor the taxpayers themselves any good.

Guy Holcomb, president of the association, declared that two of the largest legitimate dealers in gasoline have not undergone any check of their records by the state revenue department for more than 15 years. There is no implication that these particular companies have withheld any tax money, but it merely illustrates the ease with which unscrupulous companies could defraud the state.

Such a situation demands immediate and thorough investigation. If the state revenue department has been lax in this duty for more than 15 years, as stated by Mr. Holcomb, some system should be installed at once which will at least insure collection of all gasoline taxes, due the state, in the future. It is probably too late to do much about the revenue already lost. Few companies which would stoop to "bootlegging" are of sufficient financial status to make attempts to collect taxes withheld in past years worth while.

It would be far better, as Mr. Holcomb suggests, to permit the industry to police itself in this matter, than to allow present laxity to continue.

Achievement in Living

There is something delightfully refreshing in the news story from Athens, Ga., about the year's awards of the "Master Farmer" title. It tells how four Georgia farmers have achieved such success in their operations, aided by the co-operation of their families, that they have been selected, among all farmers of the state, for the honorable designation of "master farmer."

"The four families," the news story reads, "were chosen for their achievements in farm and home living."

"Achievement in living." No higher goal for man can be imagined than this. Better living. It is the sum of all man can hope to do for the benefit of his people and for those who come after him. It is the simple definition of every worth-while contribution man has made to the world since history began.

Not the war lords and the ambitious seekers after ephemeral glory; not those who measure their success in the mathematics of their bank accounts; not those who would climb to fame over the prostrate bodies of their victims; none of these can say, as life ends, that their careers were really worth making.

In the clear analysis of history, the man whose life was not wasted, be he famous or humble, is the man who contributed something to the scheme of life that made it better and happier for the generations to follow.

Whether that contribution comes as invention, as art creation, as a plan of thought or as a way of life, it is equally valuable.

These four Georgia farmers have given something of lasting value to their state. For, by their example, they have pointed to a better way of life than most of their fellows have ever known. They have recorded an "achievement in living." What more can any man accomplish?

"The safe on an Italian ocean liner can't be opened, the combination being lost." If worse comes to worst, one of our treasury raiders could be called.

The name of Sally Rand adorns a late list of licensed aviators. After years of manipulating those feathers, she finally got off the ground.

Maybe we put up with congress because it feels so good when it stops.

Editorial of the Day

THE PRESIDENT MAY HELP

(From The Twin City Sentinel.)

The south possibly has not lost its fight for a wage differential, after all.

Administrator Andrews, of the wage and hour law, has overruled the protest of southern mill operators against a blanket application of a 32 1/2-cent hourly minimum wage for the textile industry. But Washington dispatches indicate that President Roosevelt favors differentials for the south because of cheaper living costs here.

The President is said to have told a group of southern operators, who are afraid that some mills will be forced to close if they are required to comply with the 32 1/2-cent minimum, that he favors a differential in favor of the south, possibly as high as 20 cents a day. Mr. Roosevelt pointed out that under the NRA a 10 per cent differential was allowed in the textile code.

The apparent attitude of the President emphasizes the point that the strong pressure against the differential theory is not coming from administration circles. The truth seems to be that northern mill interests, anxious to minimize the factor of southern competition, are trying to force the elimination of the differential. The fight, then, is not a conflict between social altruism and "reaction," but a controversy between the sections.

If President Roosevelt takes a firm stand in favor of a small differential, as now seems quite possible, Administrator Andrews will doubtless find it expedient to refer the matter back to committee for further study or appoint a new industry committee. This probably will result in the establishment of a fair differential which will afford adequate protection to the textile industry in each section, and enable the smaller plants to continue in operation.

THE CAPITAL PARADE FAIR ENOUGH

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

NEW DEALERS DRIVE ON WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—The story of the congressional session's aftermath may be rounded out by the statement that their repeated defeats have no more affected the New Dealers' political plans than their economic program. They are not only preparing for bigger and better spending next session; they are also showing a grimmer determination in their third drive.

This may seem improbable, considering the strong congressional testimony to a conservative, anti-Roosevelt trend, both inside and outside the Democratic party. Yet the New Dealers both deny the existence of such a trend and argue that the behavior of congress merely makes a third term effort more likely and necessary. The logic is the same as ever. Progressive government must be continued. None but the President can continue it. He must run again.

They know the President's psychology, and they are convinced that his recent difficulties, instead of persuading him to retire, will annoy him into accepting the logic above-mentioned. They have a theory (which is a pretty good indication of the abnormal state of mind now prevailing in Washington) that the Democratic conservatives' purpose in inflicting a series of stinging defeats on the President was specifically to discourage him from a third term attempt. They say the conservatives went too far. Of course, it is plain that no senator or representative is quite so complex a plotter as the New Dealers suppose, yet it must be admitted that the result is the same, whatever the intention may have been. Undoubtedly, the President is now fighting mad.

STAGE MANAGEMENT Arrangements for a "draft" of the President are being made, meanwhile. A recent instance, which did not happen to come out so well, was the attempt to stage-manage a third term demand from Michigan Democrats.

Attorney General Frank Murphy was the natural stage-manager. As the New Dealers' Michigan leader, he first approached the Democratic committee of Wayne county. Wayne county, which includes Detroit and has about 40 per cent of the Michigan vote, is a Murphy stronghold. The county committee, obedient to Murphy's request, promptly passed a resolution calling on the President to run again.

Thus far, all well. It was intended, however, to have the state Democratic committee echo Wayne county a little later. Murray Van Waggoner, a crony of Postmaster General James A. Farley's and an enemy of Frank Murphy's, is strong in the state but not in Wayne county. He issued his fiat. The state committee, although energetically prodded by Murphy, failed to respond. The motion to petition the President to sacrifice himself on duty's altar was not even formally considered. Nevertheless, Murphy and his followers are confident that the Van Waggoner influence will not always prevail, and openly predict that the Michigan delegation will be pro-third term in the 1940 convention.

THE WHITE QUEEN'S ADVICE The substantiation of such predictions as these will depend largely on the attitude of Jim Farley. If Jim Farley decides to fight, in Michigan, and if he decides to go along, the third term forces may well prevail as entirely as they hope.

Even now, some time after the event, no authoritative version has been given of the Roosevelt-Farley Hyde Park conference. The men closest to the President are frank in saying they are not sure what happened, but they believe they have an approximation of it. This is that the President, doing most of the talking, told Farley first that he was going to control the 1940 convention if he had to move mountains to do it; second, that he was going to name the candidate, whether himself or another; and third, that he would want to disclose his decision until it pleased him to reveal it. They also agreed that the President listened to Farley's plans against recent ill-treatment, and promised that Farley's lot would be a little happier in the future.

The third term issue will not become pressing until the President and Jim Farley return from their respective holidays. Meanwhile, in view of the New Dealers' feelings in the matter, it is worth printing a little Washington anecdote. Not long ago a man who is sympathetic to the New Deal but not to the third term protest that he "just could not believe" the President would run again. Whereat he was reminded of the White Queen's advice to Alice in a similar predicament of incredulity. She herself, so the White Queen boasted, had often managed to believe as many as "six impossible things before breakfast." Only practice was needed, she explained.

American-Born British Subjects.

I wonder how many people there are, living among us, who are subjects of Britain, or some other nationality, instead of citizens of the United States? And don't know it.

You should know, if you don't, that it is quite possible, in the eyes of the law, to be a British subject despite the fact that you were born in this country.

There have been quite a few such cases, here in Atlanta. Take, for instance, a woman who married a British subject, a resident of this country but not naturalized.

If that marriage took place prior to 1922, that woman, no matter how American her antecedents, her heritage and her thoughts, is a British subject. It doesn't matter though her husband was naturalized and became a citizen of this country after they were married, she remains British until she is naturalized herself.

It sounds rather silly, and certainly strange, but, nevertheless, it is a provision of the law.

They changed the law in 1922, and those who married a British subject since a given date in that year did not lose their citizenship. It is only those who wed a British subject before that time, who are affected.

No Delay, However.

However, they do give native-born Americans who seek to regain a citizenship lost in this manner, one break. They don't have to wait two years between the filing of their petition for naturalization and the completion of the process. The final papers can be given them without any waiting period, just as soon as the petition has been checked and approved and as soon as the judge of the United States district court having jurisdiction can hold a public hearing and have the oath administered.

Even for these native-born aliens, however, there is an examination before a naturalization examiner before the case is taken up in court.

Some of the questions in that examination sound funny to average ears. But it must be remembered they were drawn up to suit any individual case and while a given question may appear ridiculous in 999,999 instances, it is the important key in the millionth case.

Why Do You Seek Citizenship? One question frequently asked is "Why do you seek United States citizenship?"

A few years ago there was a charming and well-known woman, well-to-do and cultured, who applied for naturalization.

She had been born in England. Frankly, she had first decided to become a naturalized citizen because she made at least one trip to England or Europe every year and, as an American citizen, her passport would be simpler to procure.

So, when the examiner asked the above question she answered, quite frankly and unthinkingly, "So I can leave the country."

The examiner gave her a chance, however. Grinning, he asked if she couldn't think of a better reason than that. After a few minutes of deep cogitation she came up with, "Well, I suppose so I can vote." That passed.

Resentful Australian.

Then there is the story they tell about the Australian woman who was told she was a resentful alien. She was quite indignant.

"Why, you have no right to say that? I'm an Australian, not an alien," she protested. "Why, we don't consider Americans who visit Australia, or who live there, as aliens. We're just like, anywhere, I think it's insulting."

Of course, there is nothing reprehensible in being an alien. If there were, every American would be guilty of the crime every time he visited Canada, Mexico, Britain or Europe. For anyone in any country other than the one in which he holds citizenship, is an alien to those around him.

And, equally, of course, the truth is that wherever you go the people you see are simply folks. Like you and I and the neighbors.

When the fact is understood and recognized, the days of lasting peace for the world will have come a lot nearer.

Meanwhile, however, we're all citizens of some one country—and we're all aliens in all other countries.

Deceit, Not Love NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—I don't profess to know the whole story of the Louisiana corruption, but I do know that anyone who wants to understand it has got to give up any lingering, wishful notion that Huey Long was a friend of the poor acorn eaters. He was nothing of the kind. He just pretended to be sorry for them for the ordinary, traditional uses of crooked politics. Any rights that they may have had before they decided to throw in with him—and God knows they had few rights—they lost to Huey himself when they placed their confidence in him. The fact that his grave is a political shrine of the poor rural people of Louisiana proves only that he deceived them, not that he loved them.

Huey had friends in national politics and in the newspaper business who admired his brilliant, slap-stuck humor and emphasized that side of his character by way of condoning his brutality and his utter selfishness. But his faults were too great to be compensated by such virtues, and his brilliance, while it entertained and fascinated persons who were mere onlookers, heightened the menace of Huey Long.

Those who lost their rights of citizenship and property trying to preserve the American form of government in Louisiana did not know the joke when he was being humorous, and they feared his brilliance because it was almost invariably used to destroy freedom.

Those he high sounding words, but Huey was a bad actor, and if you don't think freedom of speech and the press, the ballot and representative government were in danger from Huey Long just dig up the record of the laws which he jammed through a legislature that contained only two free men.

Champion Politician The trouble was that Louisiana politics had been so crooked for so long that it was almost impossible to obtain experienced politicians to oppose him who were not crooks themselves. High-minded amateurs can't fight low-principled professionals, and as a politician Huey was a champion. Even in the university, where you might think that he might have had a heart and let the kids study in peace, students were harassed against their marks and privileges if they or members of their families were out of line politically.

And now we read that under Dick Leche's reign as Governor members of the university faculty were required to revise or withdraw published opinions on the prosperity of Louisiana which deflated the ballyhoo printed in Leche's paper, which was fat with ads from contractors, municipalities and even charity hospitals and insane asylums.

Huey closed a gambling house once with great righteousness, but the reason was that the gambling house ran a night club and from show which was draining business out of a hotel night club operated by one of his gang. He didn't have an honest motive or humane impulse in anything he ever did, and his machine was no worse when the trouble came recently than it was in his day but less clever.

NO RELIEF IN SIGHT AS HEAT HANGS ON

Weather Runs Gantlet in U. S., But in Georgia It's Just Hot.

A tropical storm moved about the West Indies; the Midwest enjoyed a sudden spell of cool weather, rain fell over the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence valley, workmen cleaned up debris from a tornadic wind storm in western and central Michigan, while the heat hung grimly on in Georgia. It's not so much the heat as the monotony, murmured weary Atlantians as the weather bureau forecast more of the same for yet another day.

No, no relief in sight. The heat wave is standing up pretty well. No, there's nothing in the west that might break it, and the tropical storm is too far away to have any effect on local conditions. "Senior Meteorologist George W. Mindling said yesterday, "Today will be another yesterday," he added, "partly cloudy, with temperatures ranging from 72 to 92."

While the dry hot weather has favored boll development and checked weevil growth in the central and northern part of the state, too much rain in southern counties has damaged open cotton, and retarding picking, Mindling reported.

Peanuts and sweet potatoes also were affected by too much dampness in southern and western counties, he said, while truck crops were held back in central and eastern areas by lack of rain.

TIGHTEN FISHING TAX ON OUT-STATE BOAT

Arnall Rules Every Craft Must Pay $25, Halting 'Mother Ship' Evasion.

All out-of-state boats, whether bateaux or larger sized craft, which engage in fishing in Georgia waters must pay non-resident license fees, Attorney General Ellis Arnall ruled yesterday.

The opinion was sought by J. D. Mitchell, director of the coastal area of the division of wild life, after several large out-of-state boats had begun the practice of lowering numerous smaller boats to fish in Georgia waters, but were paying a fee only on the large "mother ship."

"I am of the opinion that the law is broad enough in its terms to include any type of boat, however small or large, which is used in connection with fishing in this state," Arnall held. "The criterion in determining whether or not the tax should be collected is whether or not the craft, however large or small, has been used in connection with fishing in this state. If the craft is used in connection with fishing in this state it is subject to the tax levied by the law."

The out-of-state license tax is $25 for each boat owned wholly or partly by a non-resident.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Frank Dewar, film cutter, who was accused recently by his divorced wife of spending money on Actress Ann Sheridan while behind in his alimony payments, made his peace with the law today.

He agreed to settle up his back alimony and to pay the $40 weekly he was ordered to give his wife for the support of their three children.

Mrs. Dewar, in an affidavit, stated Dewar had spent money entertaining Miss Sheridan, but the movies "Oomph" girl vigorously denied it.

4 'Master Farmers' Named

Plaques Are Presented to Georgians at Exercises Featuring Farm, Home Week at University.

ATHENS, Ga., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Four Georgians received plaques indicating their right to the title "Master Farmer" at a farm and home week rally on the University of Georgia campus today. They are:

Floyd H. Tabor, of Houston county, who at 29 is the youngest to be accorded the master farmer title in Georgia.

John H. Brannen, of Bulloch county.

J. E. Conwell, of Hart county.

W. Holloway Norris, of Pike county.

The four outstanding farmers were chosen for their achievements in farm and home living. The movement is sponsored jointly by the Progressive Farmer, southern agricultural publication; the Georgia Agricultural Extension Service and the College of Agriculture.

Introduced by Brown. The 1939 master farmers were introduced to the several thousand visitors here for farm and home week by Extension Director Walter S. Brown, who called attention to their progress, before presenting them with framed certificates.

On behalf of the Progressive Farmer, Managing Editor Alexander Nunn gave each master farmer a plaque, emblematic of successful farming and homemaking by the entire family.

The program was presided over by Dean Paul W. Chapman, of the College of Agriculture.

"Masters' Lauded. Director Brown praised the efforts of the master farmers, pointing out that they are good businessmen, as well as outstanding farmers. He said they have taken an active part in the civic and religious life of their respective communities, and have provided modern home conveniences for their families and the best advantages for their children.

The 29-year-old Tabor is the youngest master farmer ever selected. He also holds the distinction of being the only son of a master farmer to be so honored. His father, A. W. Tabor, of Peach county, won the award in 1927.

The Tabor's own 350 acres on the Houston-Peach county line. Although living in Houston county, Tabor's address is Route 1, Fort Valley.

The young master farmer is tilling the soil today because he "changed his mind." He left his pre-medical course at Emory when the farm called him. His success in his chosen field is evidenced by his selection today as a master farmer.

Brannen's Record. Master Farmer Brannen, who operates a 1,225-acre farm near Statesboro, is a real champion of diversified farming, with livestock playing the leading role.

Until a few years ago he was one of the largest cotton planters in his section. Today he gets most of his cash income from hogs. And he follows a live-at-home program by producing an adequate supply of vegetables, meats, poultry, and dairy products, as well as sufficient feed crops.

Conwell, whose address is Route 1, Lavonia, has made a "story-book" comeback in his farming operations.

Five years ago, he was practically broke, owning little more than a run-down farm in Georgia's red clay hills. His selection today as a master farmer tells its own story of his progress.

"Co-op" Advocate. A strong advocate of co-operative marketing, Conwell has followed farm and home practices recommended by the extension service and similar agencies to bring about his successful results.

Norris, who is 37, owns a 124-acre farm near Zebulon and operates 400 acres more. His farm plan calls for a balanced program of soil-building and food and feed crops, as well as those crops which provide his major source of income.

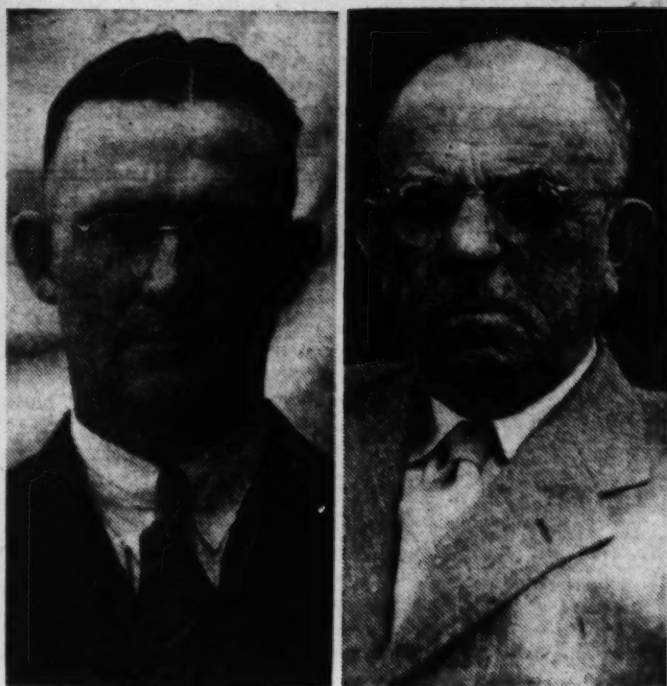

The sale of pimiento peppers brings in most of the Norris income, with cotton helping to supplement the cash. The Norris home contains all modern conveniences.

Fanning Speaks. "One of the first fundamental principles to be considered in an agricultural program on each individual farm and in each community and county throughout this state is what has been termed 'live at home,'" J. W. Fanning, Georgia extension economist, advised Georgia farm women during another farm and home week program today.

Speaking further on land-use planning and the live-at-home movement, Mr. Fanning said effective planning for use of the land involves, first, an intelligent appraisal of the soils which are dealt with; second, determination of needs for food, feed and income, and third, an understanding of the general economic factors influencing lives of farm people.

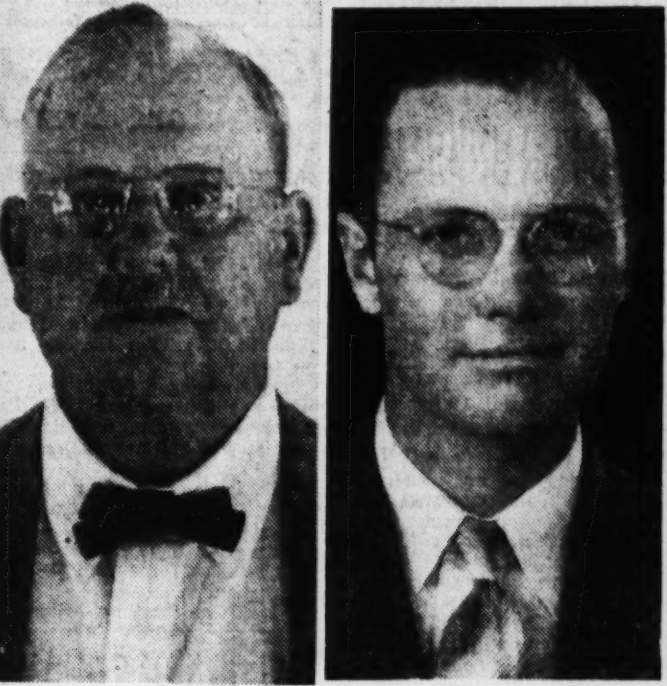

Other Events of Day. Hundreds of men, women and 4-H youths attended luncheons and dinners, listened to addresses, and participated in programs that filled every available minute of the crowded calendar.

Other important figures included J. Phil Campbell, of the Soil Conservation Service in Washington, and former director of the Georgia Agricultural Extension Service; Dr. J. A. Evans, of the Georgia Extension Service; Dr. T. S. Buie, regional conservator of the Soil Conservation Service, Spartanburg, S. C.; J. D. Doudit, of the upper Savannah soil conservation district; E. D. Alexander, of the Georgia Agricultural Extension Service; C. E. Monfort, assistant administrator for the CCC, Spartanburg, S. C.; Dr. T. H. McHatten, head of the Georgia Department of Horticulture; Miss Fannie B. Shaw, of the State Health Department, and Mrs. Bernice Brown McCullar, of Milledgeville.

Dixie Davis on Verge of Tears As Hit-Run Driver Kills Hope's Dog

Mouthpiece for Dutch Schultz and His Murderous Gang Can't Understand Why Anybody Would Do Such a Thing to "Mussolini."

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Dixie Davis, who was the mouthpiece for Dutch Schultz and his murderous gang, almost wept tonight when he told how Mussolini, a pet dog of Hope Dare, his bride of four days, was killed by a hit-run driver near Port Jefferson on Long Island.

"The poor little fellow," murmured Davis. "Some hit-run driver left him lying in the road. Why anybody who would do a thing like that ought..."

Davis, married last Sunday with two detectives as bodyguards, gave an interview in swanky Essex House in the hope, he said, that reporters and others would leave him alone to enjoy his honeymoon.

"Maybe so-called society won't give me a chance to settle down," he said. "They don't seem to want me anywhere. They are making it difficult to say the least."

Davis, whose testimony was a principal factor in convicting Tammany District Leader James J. Hines, referred to the alarm among protesting Rockland county residents when it was reported he had settled there.

Married at Nyack Sunday, the couple went to a home near Port Jefferson. They left there today when the hideaway was discovered. They plan to stay in "some hotel, somewhere" tonight.

Davis said his experiences since his release from Bronx county jail have been bitter.

"Nope, not him, nope," beamed the man.

PAY CASH FOR BEER, HEAD TELLS DEALER

Post-Dated Checks Barred, Bottle Deposit Required in New State Rules.

Licensed retail beer dealers in Georgia must pay cash for their beverage stock, State Revenue Commissioner T. Graey Head ruled yesterday.

The commissioner announced a set of amendments to the 1937 rules and regulations governing the malt beverage business in Georgia.

He declared a post-dated check could not be construed as cash and payment by this method would constitute a violation of his regulations.

Another new rule required retailers to collect a bottle deposit on all sales where bottles are not exchanged. The deposit required was two cents up to 12 ounces and five cents on each bottle of more than 12-ounce volume.

The regulations become effective August 21.

Distributors, wholesalers and brewers will not be allowed to give anything free to retailers except advertising matter. Neither will they be permitted to donate to or advertise in any charitable periodical or program, school magazine or paper without permission from the commissioner.

HUIET BUDGETS GET FEDERAL APPROVAL

Grants Under New Law Give Unemployment Office Financial Relief.

Budgets totaling $240,000 for two divisions of the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation have been approved by the regional offices of the federal social security board, State Labor Commissioner Ben T. Huie announced last night.

Grants of $109,187.90 for the unemployment compensation division and $130,908.14 for the Georgia state employment service had been withheld pending action by congress on amendments to the social security acts.

One of these, subsequently adopted by congress, allows the board to make administrative grants to states which have not transferred to the railroad retirement board contributions collected from railroads operating in those states. Georgia was listed among the latter.

"Approval of these budgets," said Huie, "will relieve the financial problems of the two divisions."

THEATER OWNERS OPPOSE INCREASE IN FILM RENTALS

Proposed Code Adding 20 Per Cent to Picture Cost To Make Up for Eliminations Assailed.

Opposition to increases in film rentals by motion picture distributors and producers to offset a 20 per cent elimination provision in the industry's proposed fair trade code was voiced yesterday by approximately 75 members of the Southeastern Theater Owners' Association meeting in Atlanta.

A resolution embodying the objections of the theater owners was introduced by Mitchell Wolfson, of Miami, Fla. It passed unanimously.

Assails Proposed Code. Under the proposed code, exhibitors would be allowed to eliminate pictures they did not want to the extent of 20 per cent in making their contracts. In explaining his resolution, Wolfson said:

"We are opposed to the principle of distributors and producers of motion pictures adding 20 per cent to the cost of film rentals to make up for 20 per cent elimination of motion pictures which is contemplated being granted the exhibitors under the industry's proposed fair code, which provides, among other things, a selectivity on the part of exhibitors."

The resolution also objected to the forced sale of shorts as a prerequisite for the purchase of feature pictures.

Other Objections Cited. Various opinions were expressed concerning the Neely bill which has passed the senate and would force distributors to sell pictures individually rather than in a bloc. Wolfson said a large number of the theater men agreed self-regulation was better than government regulation.

M. C. Moore, of Jacksonville, Fla., president of the association, protested increased film rentals by citing government reports showing greater profits for the producers.

Among other speakers were Ed Kuykendall, president of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of America; Thomas E. Orr, of Albertville, Ala.; and Mack Jackson, of Alexander City, Ala. States represented were Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Tennessee.

FLYING FILM STARS LAND FOR UNION ROW

Ralph Morgan's Hollywood Group Joins Fight on So- phie Tucker's 'A.F.A.'

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Leaders of the Screen Actors Guild arrived from Hollywood by air this evening, with the temperature in the 90's and themselves ready for an equally hot fight before the American Federation of Labor's executive council now in session at Atlantic City.

Seeking to keep actors' union activities within the Associated Actors and Artists of America, they will demand that the AFL council outlaw a charter issued by the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees to Sophie Tucker's American Federation of Actors, which the AAAA had expelled with its 10,000 vaudeville, night club and circus performers.

"We are here," said Ralph Morgan, president of the Screen Actors Guild, "on our way to Atlantic City to uphold the freedom of the rights and the integrity of the 'A's' for actors, by actors and with actors only."

Frank Gilmore, president of Actors' Equity, another AAAA subsidiary, and Lawrence Tibbett, were among more than 500 persons who greeted the Hollywood delegation. With Morgan were Mische Auer, Edward Arnold, Henry Hull, Wayne Morris, Lucille Gleason, Jean Muir, Binnie Barnes and Larry Steers.

POLAND'S ENVOY FEARS OUTBREAK

Says 'Miracle' Needed To Solve Danzig Crisis.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(UP)—Polish Ambassador Jerzy Potocki said after a visit to the State Department today that Europe will be "relatively" safe from war until next spring, if a clash can be avoided before October 1.

He was pessimistic, however, about the immediate prospect of peace in Europe, and said that he would take "almost a miracle" to solve the current dispute over the future status of Danzig.

Potocki said that by next summer "the coalition against aggressor states will be so strong that Germany and her allies would not have a chance in a major war."

'Cliveden Set' Facing Extinction; Asters Consider Closing Estate

Reputed and Denied as Scene of British Clique's Plotting for World Dominion, Famous House Has Figured in England's Politics for 300 Years.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—(UP)—The so-called "Cliveden set" may be without a home soon if Lord and Lady Astor carry out a reported plan to close the famous house on the Thames.

The modern "Cliveden set," which the American-born Lady Astor recently described as "Communist fiction," was supposed to be a small but powerful group of British politicians who determined the trend of British foreign policy.

The great mansion requires 100 domestic servants and an army of gardeners.

From time to time Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain has spent a week end there. Other formidable names in British politics signed the guest book and the house became famous as the rendezvous of the "Cliveden set."

Nearly 300 years ago it was the home of George Villiers, second Duke of Buckingham and friend of Charles II. The Duke was a rake. Political plotting was as common as the Duke's love affairs.

Lord and Lady Astor received the estate as a wedding gift from the late Lord Astor in 1906. During the World War the Astors made it a hospital for the Canadian forces.

BELGRADE SPURNS DEMANDS OF AXIS

of Yugoslavia's population, which like former Czechoslovakia, is mostly Slavic.

Reluctance of Serb politicians and army officers to yield places to Croats has been blamed in Croat quarters for failure of negotiations.

Sources close to the government said German and Italian pressure had increased on Yugoslavia as the cabinet and regent showed unwillingness to consider the demands.

Order Food Hoarded. An urgent government decree issued tonight ordered the immediate storing of food for the army and civilian population in government warehouses.

Several weeks ago a decree forbade exportation of raw materials necessary for national defense.

Today's decree makes it obligatory to store cereals, meat, canned goods, dried vegetables, salt, fats, oils, coffee and tea.

Prince Paul, senior regent of Yugoslavia, was said to have explained the axis demands to the British and French governments on his recent trip to London and Paris.

Authoritative sources said Britain and France had told the regent they would back Yugoslavia in case she came into conflict with the Rome-Berlin axis, for her surrender would mean a staggering blow had been dealt to Rumania, Greece and Turkey, which have joined the French-British front or have been included in it by British-French guarantees of their independence.

The government of Premier Cvetkovich and Prince Paul were understood to have agreed that the slightest compliance with any such demands would be incompatible with the sovereignty of Yugoslavia.

POLAND CANCELS LEAVES, ACTING FOR SHOWDOWN.

WARSAW, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Poland's preparedness for a possible "new period of crisis" in Europe late this month was indicated today by reports that no leaves of absence would be granted in the Polish army after August 15. The orders were said to forbid even short leaves.

The reported precautionary action was in line with the developing feeling that events were building toward a showdown over Danzig in southeast Europe.

"There is no doubt that the situation remains unchanged and demands maximum watchfulness, despite a temporary relaxation of tension," said the pro-government newspaper Kurjer Warszawski.

FRENCH NAVY CHIEF VIEWS FLEET WITH KING

LONDON, Aug. 9.—(AP)—King George VI reviewed an impressive array of Britain's reserve fleet off Weymouth today beneath overcast skies which forced a 24-hour postponement of London's first black-out since the World war.

The British admiralty lined up 133 ships of the reserve fleet to demonstrate to the sailor king the nation's maritime preparedness.

Standing alone in an open cockpit of a streamlined royal barge, King George swept through miles-long lines of trim warships with Fleet Admiral Jean Darlan, supreme commander of the French naval forces, and Lord Stanhope, first lord of the British admiralty, nearby.

The Lord Privy seal announced the aerial maneuvers would be carried out tomorrow, regardless of the weather.

LIFE SENTENCE METED TO DAWSON COUNTEY

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. DAWSONVILLE, Ga., Aug. 9.—Lewis Edmondson, indicted by the Dawson county grand jury on a charge of murder following the death of his brother, Bill Edmondson, entered a plea of guilty this afternoon, by agreement of counsel, and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Bill Edmondson died recently, seven months after being struck with a chair, allegedly at his brother's hands. Lewis Edmondson had been in jail here since November.

Judge Tom Candler, presiding at his second term of Dawson superior court since his selection as Judge of the Northeastern circuit, assessed a $50 fine against Charles C. Anderson, Jr., who pleaded guilty to charges of robbery and intimidation.

F. D. R. OKAYS WAR ON PINK BOLL WORM

Signs Bill Freeing Small Phone Exchanges From Wage-Hour Act.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 9.—(AP)—President Roosevelt disposed of a fourth of the bills remaining from the last congressional session today by vetoing nine and signing 28, including one to authorize the secretary of agriculture to prepare plans to eradicate the pink boll worm.

Another of those approved by the chief executives makes the only revision in the wage-hour act on which congress could agree. It exempts any switchboard operator employed in public telephone exchanges having less than 500 connections.

Another bill approved was designed to "render closer and more effective the relationship between the American republics." It permits the appointment of advisory committees to carry out purposes of the inter-American peace conference in Buenos Aires in 1936 and the Pan-American conference at Lima in 1938.

He still had 108 bills to sign or veto, besides a few more returned to various federal agencies for further scrutiny.

One of the bills the President turned down would have granted pensions to 160 helpless children of Civil War veterans and increased the pensions of eight others, who range in age from 33 to 61.

"While generally the cases covered by the bill invoke sympathy," the President stated, "there appears to be no compelling reason why they should be singled out for preferential treatment, excluding others who may be similarly situated."

ARMY, NAVY APPOINT CITIZEN WAR BOARD

Six Named To Guide U. S. Mobilization in Case of War Emergency.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP)—With President Roosevelt's sanction, the army and navy set up an advisory war resources board of six prominent industrialists and economists today to speed up national mobilization in case of war.

Youngful Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, was named chairman. Other members are:

Karl T. Compton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company; Harold G. Moulton, president of the Brookings Institution; John Lee Pratt, a director of General Motors Corporation, and General Robert E. Wood, chairman of Sears-Roebuck.

In a national emergency, the board would automatically become an executive agency like the powerful 1917-18 War Industries Board headed by Bernard Baruch. It will help perfect plans for some 10,000 manufacturing plants already tentatively assigned wartime tasks.

It will seek the counsel of Baruch and other "elder statesmen" of the World War period.

DUCE MOVE TO 'KEEP 'EM DOWN ON FARM'

ROME, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The government today adopted a stringent measure to compel rural Italians to remain in rural areas.

A law published in the official gazette provided for fines up to 1,000 lire ($50) for anyone moving into a town of 25,000 population or more, unless he already had work there or other means of support.

ATLANTAN TO BUILD REA LINE EXTENSION

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. MARIETTA, Ga., Aug. 9.—H. B. Nelson, Atlanta contractor, has been awarded contract for construction of 129 additional miles of rural electric lines in Cobb county and portions of Fulton, Bartow and Cherokee.

Nelson's bid was for $74,344. Eleven bids were received for the project, expected to serve an additional 422 customers.

WAR GAMES SHOW U. S. TROOPS BETTER

Chief of Staff Reports 'Im- pressive Advances' in Fighting Efficiency.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP)—General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, reported on his return from an inspection today that the opening phase of the army's big scale war games at Manassas, Va., showed "impressive advances" in the fighting efficiency of professional and citizen soldiers.

Some 20,000 national guardsmen and 4,000 regulars organized into a mobile streamlined division, trained in 95-degree heat today for war games next week.

The chief of staff and other high command officers divided attention between the Manassas maneuvers, a silent mimic "paper war" already in progress on the Pacific coast and preliminaries to the concentration of some 45,000 troops in northern New York.

In this country as in tense Europe, where 8,000,000 men are under arms, August climaxes annual efforts to fuse scattered units of officers and men into homogeneous military organizations ready for national emergency.

One Virginia guard regiment is commanded by Richmond's mayor, Colonel John Fulmer Bright. In the New York games, citizen soldiers will include youthful Senator Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., of Massachusetts, a cavalry reserve captain.

TWO FLYERS KILLED IN MID-AIR CRASH

Round Lake, N. Y., Aug. 9.—(AP) Death of two United States army aviators today in a mid-air crash between two observation airplanes cast a grim shadow over the opening of vast "war games" at Plattsburg, N. Y., in which 50,000 soldiers will take part.

It was several hours before the mangled bodies of Second Lieut. Morris E. Thomas, Hempstead, L. I., pilot of one ship and a member of the air reserve, and Private Anthony R. Gerrity, Scranton, Pa., enlisted man, could be removed from the tangled wreckage.

Lieut. W. M. Prince, flight commander and pilot of the other damaged plane, managed to land without injury.

POLICE CHIEF'S WIFE ABDUCTED, RELEASED

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. AUGUSTA, Ga., Aug. 9.—Mrs. Minnie Lott, wife of Police Chief Barry Lott, of Williston, S. C., is in a hospital for treatment for nervous shock, following an alleged daylight kidnapping which she reported to Police Captain George R. Folds.

Mrs. Lott told officers she was seized by two unidentified men while standing on Broad street, in the shopping district, placed in the foot of an automobile in which she was driven to the edge of town, blindfolded, and released without injury. She walked back to town, she said.

DOCTORS ADVISE GETTING VITAMINS IN BALANCED DIET

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The value of vitamins in preventing disease was reaffirmed today by the American Medical Association, but it advised taking them with a knife and fork.

A medical report of experts said many persons don't eat the right foods—or enough of them—to get all the vitamins they should.

It asserted, however, that taking vitamin mixtures "cannot replace the need of adequate amounts of a well-balanced diet."

The report, published in the association's Journal, was made by its councils on pharmacy and chemistry and on foods. It gives the last word on deficiency diseases due to lack of vitamins, substances essential for maintenance of the body's normal metabolic functions.

"With the exception of pellagra and a possible vitamin B-1 deficiency, there is no evidence of a noteworthy prevalence in this country of conditions in adults that might properly be ascribed to a lack of one or more vitamins," it states.

One Virginia guard regiment is commanded by Richmond's mayor, Colonel John Fulmer Bright. In the New York games, citizen soldiers will include youthful Senator Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., of Massachusetts, a cavalry reserve captain.

HARTSFIELD SIGNS $1,050,000 ORDER FOR PUBLIC WORKS

Waterworks, Incinerator Improvements Covered; Barbers' Ordinance May Be Okayed Today.

Approving sale of $1,050,000 of city revenue certificates for waterworks and incinerator improvements, Mayor Hartsfield yesterday indicated he would sign today the newly enacted ordinance establishing a local barbers' board to fix prices.

Resolutions providing for the sale of the certificates were approved by city council Monday. In signing the measures, Hartsfield said they will not entail a tax increase but will provide needed improvements for incineration and for the city's water supply and at the same time make the city able to meet any reasonable demands from population increases for the next decade.

The entire issue of the revenue certificates was ordered sold to the Trust Company of Georgia by previous order of council and the aldermanic board.

How Money Will Go

In approving the revenue certificate issues, Hartsfield said: "The water department is preparing to service a large number of new sewers, which are being laid as a part of the metropolitan sewer system. The pumping station capacity and new water mains will be laid with the funds derived from the sale."

"With this money to support the expanding program of the city's water system, we will be able to meet any reasonable population increase for the next decade. The sanitary department will erect a new incineration plant to replace the one which has now been in operation for nearly 30 years."

Barber Law Urged
The mayor said a flood of telegrams, letters and telephone calls have urged him to approve the newly enacted barbers' ordinance, passed at the same council session. William E. Dunn, Jr., yesterday addressed a letter to the mayor entitled "Unconstitutional Ordinances" in which he attacked the proposal to control prices of hair cuts and shaves, pointing to a decision by Judge John D. Humphries, of the Fulton county superior court, which refused to allow such a procedure several years ago.

Girl Preacher From the Ozarks Draws Hundreds Here Nightly

Recie Inez Carter, Pretty Disciple of Aimee Semple McPherson, Received 'Call' When 13; Says God Directed Her To Go to Georgia.

By YOLANDE GWIN.
A girl from the Ozark mountains who says "God directed me to go to Georgia and preach" draws hundreds to hear her every night.

She is Recie Inez Carter, disciple of Aimee Semple McPherson and her nightly battles with the "church" place in her "church" tent on Washington street at the Fair street intersection.

And every night men, women and children gather to hear the beautiful young girl preacher and it is not an unusual sight to see members of her congregation leave their pews, march up to the pulpit and kneel before the pretty young person. There is no age limit to her converts.

The slim, dark-haired young preacher says she received "the call" when she was 13 and living in the Ozarks. "My mother urged me to finish my schooling before entering into this life," she said yesterday. I finished and entered business, but I was not happy. I felt that I carried the heavy burden of the spiritual needs of people and I wanted to go to them and take them the message."

Last year, she says, she was offered the charge of a church in Montana.

"I wanted to take it, as it was a large church and the people were my people. I sat in front of the fire in my home, trying to decide what to do when I had a message from the Lord telling me to 'arise my child and go to Georgia and I shall aid you.' I had no money to go, but I knew that if the Lord directed me and wanted me to go, he would provide the way. The next day mother and I left for Georgia, with money provided by the Lord. He has never failed to provide for me since then."

Pretty Recie Carter and her mother, Mrs. Ethel Carter, have been living here for several months, and conduct services every night.

September 1 for further investigation.

A committee headed by Ed McGonigal which has been investigating the sewer situation, including charges of waste, high-handedness, and poor engineering, is likely also to ask the September grand jury to continue its inquiry, it was said. However, some recommendations on sewers will probably be brought before the full grand jury by this committee before the end of August.

The Respass audit listed the amount each fleet of cars in each department cost, as well as listing individually the cost of the four privately owned cars of the commissioners.

What Expenses Totaled.
Commissioner Hailey spent $84.68 for new tires on his car since February when he came on the board to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of George F. Longley.

Almond received services and expenses totaling $157.17, plus $38.78 worth of gas and $9 worth of oil. Chastain totaled $152.05 for repairs and services, and $12.24 for gas and $5.25 for oil. Hailey's expense was $128.42 for repairs and services, $14.22 for gas, and $4.50 for oil. Adams' upkeep was $92.61 for repairs and services, $20.70 for gas and $6.60 for oil.

Repairs and services included washing, lubricating, labor and materials. The commissioners got the cook, what they wish and gas and oil at the county's bulk rate.

HARLAN, Ky., Aug. 9.—(UP)—Police today investigated the death of Mrs. Victoria Gross, 48-year-old mother of six, whose blood-soaked body was found in her bathtub.

"Nothing Irregular."
Hailey and Chastain pointed out yesterday afternoon that there was nothing irregular in receiving expenses for their personal cars since it was ordered by the commission when commissioners last year gave up county cars. They use their cars every day for county duty, they said.

"It is unfair to insinuate there is anything irregular in this," said Hailey. "When I went on the commission, I was told by the chairman that I was entitled to this expense from the county."

Meanwhile, the "secret five" committee of the grand jury continued investigating the county car situation with the view of bringing definite recommendations in the presentments to be made at the end of the term this month.

The committee to investigate purchases—delving particularly into complaints about the purchase of machinery for the public works department—is to hold another meeting next week but due to the short time left in this term, it is expected to turn over its information to the incoming grand

WITNESS IN BRIDGES TRIAL THREATENED

Police Captain Reveals Note Saying Gang Planned To 'Dump' Him.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 9.—(P)—Captain John J. Keegan, of the Portland, Ore., police department, said today during a recess in the Harry Bridges' deportation hearing that he had received an anonymous letter saying a waterfront gang had planned to "dump" him.

The detective captain said the letter, signed "Outcast," stated the officer had done him a favor in 1934, and added:

"I work here on the waterfront. Some of the boys want to give you a good dumping. As I know you are a square John, we can not stand for anything of that sort. Any dumping headed your way will be taken care of and paid off the hard way. Will keep my ears open to state off any dumping of that sort. Will also take good care of anyone who tries to give you the business."

"I am not a bit worried," Keegan said. "I have been threatened by experts."

Keegan, an "adverse" defense witness in the government's efforts to deport Bridges, Australian-born CIO labor leader, had testified about details of the placing of a dictograph in a hotel room during the Maritime Federation convention in Portland in 1937.

Highway travel in this country will almost double by 1960, the Bureau of Public Roads foresees.

BANDIT COUP WORKS, BUT COPS LAUGH LAST
CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—(P)—An excited woman telephoned police today:

"A man is about to leap from the twenty-first floor of the Mallers building on Wabash avenue. Hurry!"

The radio operator dispatched all available detective squads, but they found it a false alarm.

At that moment a man entered a garment plant on Market street and robbed it of a box of pay envelopes.

The decoy coup entitled the bandit team to a pair of chuckles. But the constabulary enjoyed the last laugh.

The pay envelopes were empty.

OUTSIDE-HEART BABY'S FATHER SPURNS $10,000

MANILA, Aug. 9.—(P)—A specialist said Baby Mary Heart, born Monday with her heart completely outside her body, might live indefinitely but it would be impossible to correct the rare malformation through an operation.

The father, a 31-year-old mining company clerk and law student, was reported to have spurned a $10,000 offer by a Manila sportsman to take the baby to the New York World's Fair by Clipper plane. He did, however, sell postal card rights to a photographer for $50. The larger offer was turned down because of fear the trip would jeopardize the baby's life.

Any infection of the organ would cut short the little Filipino's life.

The exposed heart, resting on the baby's chest and connected to the body by a large artery, is being protected by a thin glass cup. Doctors said they were using a balanced aqueous solution to prevent dehydration of the heart and to maintain normal moisture. The solution substitutes for the normal body fluid.

Dr. Jesus Calius, heart specialist of Santa Tomas University, said it would be impossible to place the heart in its natural position within the body. To do so would mean shutting off the connecting artery and would make death a matter of minutes.

The baby was in better condition today than yesterday. She weighed seven pounds at birth and except for the exposed heart was pronounced normal.

LAST TRIBUTE TODAY TO NASHVILLE HERO

J. H. Sneed, Atlantan's Kin, Drowned in Gulf Rescuing 3 Children.

Funeral services for Jerome Henry Sneed, of Nashville, Tenn., brother of Mrs. Ruth Conner, of Atlanta, and former athlete at the University of Tennessee, who lost his life Tuesday in the Gulf of Mexico after rescuing three children, including his 8-year-old son, will be held in Nashville today.

Shortly after he had handed to lifeguards his son, Jack, and two other youngsters who had ventured beyond their depth in the narrows of Santa Rosa Sound near Fort Walton, Fla., Tuesday afternoon, Sneed collapsed from exhaustion and sank. His body was recovered from the swift tide, but efforts to revive him on the beach and at a near-by hospital were unsuccessful.

Sneed was head of the Feed and Loan division of the Federal Farm Service in Davidson county, Tennessee.

Besides his son and Mrs. Conner, he is survived by his widow, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bush Sneed; two brothers, Bush and Tom; three sisters, Misses Ruby and Linda Sneed, and Mrs. Jack Norman, all of Nashville. Another brother, R. R. Sneed, resides in Houston, Texas.

Worldly Wise Child Editor Spills the Beans on Dad

VALSETZ, Ore., Aug. 9.—(UP)—The 300 subscribers of the mimeographed Valsetz Star took personal interest tonight in a weighty decision confronting the editor's father.

"He doesn't know whether to go to Breilbush or to the editor's gain again like last year," wrote 10-year-old Dorothy Anne Hobson, the Star's editor and publisher, "or to go to Crawfordville and meet some of the daughters of the girls he used to know."

There was real fire among other events of the past week. Half the town burned.

"When the fire raged in the business district," the newspaper said, "we packed up our books of knowledge again and studied the law book and 'The History of the Republican Party,' and 'How To Be Happy Though Married,' which is Mother's Book."

SUSPECT SEIZED IN BURGLARIES

May Be Linked to Slaying Near Eaton.

Fulton County Policeman Fred Bradford and W. L. Duncan yesterday reported that they had arrested a negro, listed as Willie Ed Martin, alias Chandler, who is wanted on indictments for nine house burglaries and four automobile thefts.

The arrest was made at a house in Mathews alley, to which the negro was traced after the officer had received information that he may link him with the burglary-slaying of a man near Eaton, Ga., two months ago.

Martin had been sought by police here for nearly eight months.

Young Lemonade Merchant Demands Police Protection

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 9.—(P)—Police were puzzled when a call came in that there had been a restaurant break-in in a suburban section of the city.

First, they didn't know about the existence of a restaurant in the section whence the call came and, second, daylight break-ins are rare indeed.

Investigating two patrolmen found a boy was "stealing" ice from an eight-year-old playmate's lemonade stand.

Surf-Bathing Dog Scared Out by Bass

SAVANNAH BEACH, Ga., Aug. 9. — (AP) — Hoke Smith, Savannah Beach policeman, has a dog that used to like to swim beyond the surf. Observers of a little incident the other day believe he has given up the pastime.

It seems the dog was about 200 yards out. A giant sea bass came to the surface for a look at the strange invader of his habitat. The fish, so observers say, leaped about four feet out of the water, splashed in the direction of the dog.

The dog practically ran on top of the water—he was in such a hurry to get out," one eyewitness declared.

FORREST EWING, 28, FLEES ROAD GANG

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. LAVONIA, Ga., Aug. 9.—Forrest Ewing, 28-year-old convict serving 15 to 18 years for robbery, escaped Monday while at work with a road-gang near Gum Log community in Franklin county. Ordinary G. R. Harrison disclosed today.

Ewing's escape was his third since his conviction. He recently was transferred here from Tattall prison.

Ewing, a native of Union City, was reported sent up from Gwinnett county.

Ordinary Harrison said the convict, a semi-trusty, was permitted to go unguarded to the rear of a near-by house to get a drink of water, and that he failed to return. Bloodhounds were put on his trail, the ordinary said, but no trace of the fugitive had been found today.

Addition to Debutante Roster Anticipated Upon Belle's Return

By Sally Forth.

FRIENDS of Bungle Fuller anticipate that upon her arrival home from the west on August 15 that she will decide to become a member of Atlanta's 1939-40 Debutante Club. A number of Bungle's close friends have signified their intention of making their formal bows this winter and no doubt they will inspire the popular belle to join their ranks.

Bungle, you know, is the daughter of the Tom Fullers and should she make her debut during the forthcoming season, Sally predicts that a whirl of parties will be given in her honor. For Bungle is considered one of the city's most popular belles and her parents are numbered among society's most prominent members.

According to letters written to Atlanta friends, Bungle has had many interesting experiences during her stay in the west, where she has been the guest of classmates at Finch School in New York, where she was enrolled last year. Among the pleasures enjoyed by the Atlanta visitor was a seaplane trip to Catalina Island, made while she was visiting Betty Helms and Pauline Wright in Beverly Hills, Cal.

Former Atlantans contributing interest to Bungle's visit to the west were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Freeman and their son, Frank Freeman Jr. Accompanied by the latter, Bungle visited several leading motion picture studios in Hollywood, where she met and talked with many film celebrities. Bungle and her hostess, Pauline Wright, enjoyed a motor trip with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wright, to San Francisco, where they spent several days attending the Golden Gate Exposition.

Bungle, at the present time, is visiting her classmate, Dorothy Humphreys, in Denver, Col., where she is being feted at parties galore before her departure for Atlanta on Sunday.

MEMBERS of very youthful social circles donned party clothes on Tuesday afternoon to attend the birthday celebration of little Mary Ann Campbell, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Campbell. The party, at which Mary Ann's mother was hostess, took place at the Tudor road residence of the little girl's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Goldsmith.

Miss Chamlee and Mr. Howard Jr. Marry at Church Rites in Canton

CANTON, Ga., Aug. 9.—Among important weddings of the late summer season was that of Miss Nellie Chamlee, daughter of Mrs. Jere Warren Chamlee, of this city, and William Schley Howard Jr., of Atlanta, which was a brilliant social event taking place here this evening.

The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock at the First Baptist church with Dr. Aquilla Chamlee, uncle of the bride, officiating in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends of the young couple from throughout the state. The guests were assembling and during the ceremony an appropriate musical program was presented by Miss Virginia Wood, soloist and C. W. Dieckman, organist.

Church Decorations. Smilax, white flowers and cathedral tapers were combined to form the effective decorations in the church. The altar was banked with the rich greenery amid which were interspersed eight seven-branched candelabra holding white burning tapers. The choir railing was outlined with garlands of smilax topped with small white candles. The platform was outlined with smilax and placed on the platform were three white Grecian urns filled with white gladioli and asters. The balcony rail in the church was festooned with smilax.

Ushers were Jack Savage, E. D. Smith Sr., Judge Virlyn Moore, Robert Ranspock, E. L. Tiller and C. D. Zachry. The groomsmen were William G. Booth, of Woodstock; William Conner Ripley and John A. Griffin, all of Atlanta.

Mrs. William Gibson Booth, of Woodstock, was matron of honor for her sister, and another sister of the bride, Miss Ann Chamlee, was the maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Jacqueline Howard, sister of the groom and Miss Mary Collier. They were all gowned alike in becoming models of allegro blue net fashioned along bouffant lines, the long full skirts being made of several layers of the material. The second layer was trimmed with a wide band of rose d'amour satin ribbon finished with a large bow. The sweet-heart necklines were offset by short puffed sleeves and they carried cascade bouquets of rumburth lilies.

Beautiful Bride. The bride entered with her brother, Jere Michael Chamlee, of Atlanta, who gave her in marriage and they were met at the altar by the groom and his brother, Pierre Howard, who was best man. The tall, stately beauty of the bride was enhanced by her wedding gown of white tulle fashioned along bouffant lines. The old-fashioned tight bodice was outlined with a deep band of handsome rose point lace. The long, full skirt was made with three layers of tulle which widened to form a fan-shaped train. Her long tulle veil was appliqued with Brussels lace and caught to her hair with clusters of lilies of the valley. The veil is a family heirloom and belongs to the bride's aunt, Mrs. Laney M. Hensley, of Atlanta. The bride's only ornament was an antique bracelet and cameo given to her mother by her father upon the occasion of their marriage. She carried a real lace handkerchief woven by Miss Frances Tufts. Her flowers were pale pink orchids showered with lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Chamlee, mother of the bride was handsomely gowned in lyric blue chantilly lace worn with a shoulder spray of orchids. Mrs. William Schley Howard, of Atlanta, mother of the groom, wore a model of midnight blue lace, and she also wore orchids.

Wedding Trip. After the ceremony Mrs. Chamlee entertained at a reception at her home here for her daughter and Mr. Howard. Forming the receiving line with the hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Howard, the groom's parents; the bride and groom and members of the wedding party. A prouction of white flowers was used in artistic arrangement throughout the home. The table in the dining room was covered with a real lace cloth and was centered with an embossed wedding cake. On either side of the centerpiece were crystal candelabra holding burning tapers.

Assisting in entertaining were Misses Max Michael, Moira Michael, of Athens, and Mrs. Laney Hensley, of Atlanta, aunts of the bride; Misses Linda Chamlee, Ma-linda and Martha Gault, Annie Brooks, Lucia Rooney and Virginia Wood and Mrs. Howard Brooks. Mrs. Pierre Howard, Mrs. D. S. Pressly.

Mr. Howard and his bride left for a wedding trip to the Georgia coast and upon their return on September 1, they will reside at 118 Church street in Decatur. The bride traveled in a small brown sheer ensemble worn with lizard accessories. Her ensemble was completed by a handsome kolin-sky scarf.

Newest Styles Focus Attention on Slimly Tapering Waist

Joan Crawford "Held Up" MY DAY By Youngsters of Seven

By Sheila Graham.

Lovely Joan Crawford, while attending the "Old Maid" premiere, obligingly gave a second photograph to a couple of little boys.

Correct Speech Habits Win Friends

Promising moments—how often they fizzle out. But few realize that the new friendship, the new job that seemed within grasp may have been lost by poor English. Even a pretty girl loses her charm and appeal if her talk bristles with crude mistakes. "Don't the moon look beautiful?—You dance good—Was that Her you was with?"

How differently she would sound to a desirable young man if she said correctly, "Doesn't the moon look beautiful?—You dance well—Was that She you were with?"

The less glaring errors need watching too. The employer looking for "top flight" people for his organization rates as uncultivated the young man who says "Myself and father were in business—I begun work there two years ago—I have used these kind of records." He might have been first choice for the job if he had said "Father and I were—I began work—these kinds of records."

No one consciously speaks incorrectly, but all too often you are the last to be aware of your errors. Or perhaps at one time you knew better, but have grown careless.

Send 15 cents in coins for our booklet, "COMMON ERRORS IN ENGLISH," to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Young, Animated Is This Basque Frock

By Barbara Bell

The skirt is very full, the waistline very small, the sleeves very puffed. In all, 1797-B is a simple frock in which you'll feel particularly slim and pretty and gay—it's so young and animated. Long darts at the waistline and fullness on shoulders give the coveted and smart round-bosomed look, to slim figures.

This design is a natural for dark materials—dotted Swiss, linen, silk print of flat crepe—with frothy white collar and cuffs, and white or bright contrast in the button marching down the front of the bodice. It's a style you'll love to have later in bright wool, too. Excellent for office and street wear.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1797-B is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Corresponding bust measurements 30, 32, 34, 36 and 38. Size 14 (32) requires 3-7-8 yards of 35-inch fabric with sleeves; with long sleeves, 4-1-2 yards; 3-4 yard contrasting, together with 1-1-2 yards pleating.

People's Interest In Government Grows

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

HYDE PARK.—I had a most interesting time yesterday afternoon and evening, talking with a woman who has just motored far and wide throughout this country. She started in Seattle, Wash., covered the west coast pretty thoroughly and then criss-crossed up and down, reaching up to Minneapolis, Minn., down to Knoxville, Tenn., and Florence, Ala.

I was interested in her impressions of the physical change brought about in the country during the past few years. Far and wide, over this country, I have said that, for generations to come, there would be people using the things created by WPA workers during this period of depression. The sad part of it is that, of course, few people will realize what the schools, or the parks, or the playgrounds or the recreation centers.

Young people who have worked in NYA, boys who have worked on the CCC programs, saving our soil and improving our forests; men who have worked on WPA, and women, too, will get little credit or thanks for the things which would never have been done if it had not been for this period of depression and the necessity of putting people to work for the government. This woman thinks an immense physical improvement has been made and a greatly added interest in government has begun to take hold on the people. This is the greatest gain which can be made in a democracy.

The President arrived this morning and looks far less tired than I expected. I think he is so pleased over having signed all the bills which were ready for his signature before he left Washington, that he has a feeling of really beginning a holiday, even though in the course of the next day or so some 200 or more bills will be coming up here to be decided upon.

When he told me over the telephone that he was going to keep open house for the members of congress who wished to come and say good-bye to him, I was rude enough to snicker, for it seemed to me that congress had shown such a desire to leave Washington that it certainly would not remain long enough for any such amenities as saying good-bye. However, I was wrong, for he says a great many of them came in before leaving.

As I look over the last few weeks, I begin to think that some of the press is correct in thinking that the Republican minority with 20 to 25 per cent of the minority Democrats are going to stand out primarily for their sporting disposition. These two minorities, which constitute a majority, have made two bets with the public. One is that there will be no war in Europe until they return in January. If they lose, it might be rather serious, for little influence could be brought to bear by the executive to try to avert war.

The other bet is with business. One of the papers carried a very interesting editorial a few days ago in which said that this group in congress had challenged business, but I think it is more accurate to say that they have placed a bet. By next spring business will put 3,000,000 men to work or the bet will be lost. Let's hope they win both bets and let's wish them all, majority and minorities, a happy holiday.

Is Policing Wife a Blessing Or a Bane to Husband?

By Caroline Chatfield.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I wish to challenge the statement of the genial gentleman (as you referred to him) that wives cramp husbands' styles, manners, or elsewhere—without cause. I maintain that the man is to blame—at least in some measure.

The wife has discovered certain things concerning his various escapades—either serious or light, and has lost count of them. In fact, to a certain extent, where another woman is concerned.

When a man plays around and is found out—no matter how hard his wife tries to bury the hatchet, no matter how much she loves him, she cannot forget where the hatchet is—especially if it seems that circumstances are about to be repeated. This is true even when the wife is sure that all her husband has done is a little flirting. She is less sure if she knows, and therefore apprehensive under certain circumstances. Another thing one depends upon is who the woman is that her husband is having a private conversation with. If it is a woman of the same type as his wife, she will not mind. If it is a woman of a different type, she will be concerned.

It is a known fact that this cramping of friend husband's style is not his fault. It is a situation, that otherwise he would have made a fool of himself. Furthermore, a good woman is true to her husband because of her virtue—a good man is true to his wife because of his virtue. I am speaking of the husband of the breed when I say "good" not the ones who love their wives, but chase every petticoat on the horizon. I'll admit that there are plenty of women who need their style cramped by their husband's presence in many instances. To sum it all up—a certain amount of it is good for us—and no husband or wife with the right intentions will rebel against it.

Dear lady, the genial husband himself wouldn't argue that there isn't a cause for every effect but he would take issue with you, as I do, that there is only one cause for the wife's cramping her husband's style. It's not fair to lay all style-cramped husbands with the same stick. For instance, I know a man who is a paragon of virtue as a husband but in the presence of grammar, he's a hopeless failure. He knows it crucifies his wife to hear him foul his pronunciation, mix his tenses and commit mayhem and murder on the English language. Consequently, when they are out together he has very little fun when she's not in earshot he's as noisy as a neighbor's radio.

Also I believe the genial gentleman would take issue with you in the statement that a wife's cramping her husband's style is frequently his salvation. So would I. The policeman on the beat can keep the petty thief from watching while he's watching him but the minute the policeman's back is turned the thief proceeds with his peccadilloes. In much the same way the policing wife may put the quietus on papa's flirtation proclivities, while she's looking at him, but he makes up for lost time when her back is turned.

Agreed: A little marital style cramping is salutary and keeps marriage healthy. Like the fear of the Lord, husband's and wife's fear of one another is the beginning of wisdom.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Cook's Day Off, Try This Easy Menu

By SALLY SAVER

On the cook's day off, perhaps you'd like a menu which can be prepared in the morning, can wait indefinitely, and then be easily assembled at dinner time. This menu meets such requirements.

Cold Sliced Ham
Chili Relish Sauce
Creamed Corn Plum Butter
Whole Wheat Rolls
Chopped Tomato Salad
Jellied Macaroni Dessert
Tea or Coffee

The creamed corn can be of left-over corn if you choose. Left-over corn-on-the-cob can be cut off and prepared this way.

Creamed Corn.
4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
1-4 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon paprika
1-8 teaspoon celery salt
1 egg yolk

Melt the butter and add the flour. Pour in the milk and seasonings. Mix thoroughly. Cook until creamy, stirring constantly. Add the corn and yolk. Cook until steaming. Serve hot.

Jellied Macaroni Dessert.
1 tablespoon gelatin
2 tablespoons cold water
3 egg yolks
1 cup milk
1-2 cup granulated sugar
3 egg whites, beaten
1-2 cup whipped cream
1 teaspoon vanilla
1-4 teaspoon lemon extract
1-4 teaspoon almond extract
1-8 teaspoon salt
2 cups macaroni cookies (boxed).

Soak the gelatin for five minutes in the water. Beat the yolks. Add the milk and sugar. Cook in double boiler until mixture thickens slightly. Stir constantly during cooking. Add the gelatin and stir until it dissolves. Cool and let thicken slightly. Fold in the whites, cream, extracts and salt. Let chill for 10 minutes and then pour over the rolled cookie crumbs which have been placed in shallow buttered dish. Store in refrigerator until needed. May be served with cream.

Pears Are Ripe.
Lovely ripe yellow pears are now in the markets. They are excellent served as a breakfast fruit. Chill them, peel and slice thinly and serve with crisp, dry cereals and cream. They are good also in salads, or as a dessert fruit.

A pretty pear salad may be made thus: Peel pears, half them lengthwise, scoop out centers and fill cavity with well-seasoned cream cheese. Place halves together and chill thoroughly. Then slice the pear in rings, arrange on lettuce leaves and sprinkle with finely chopped nuts. Serve with cream mayonnaise or French dressing.

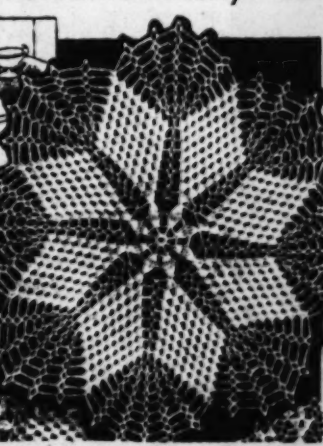

Another pear salad may be made like this: Wipe and peel pears, cut in eighths lengthwise and remove core and seeds. Arrange these sections on lettuce cover with French dressing to which has been added mashed or grated cheese. Garnish with strips of pimento.

Dessert Pears.
Baked peaches and pears make an excellent dessert. Use any fruit if desired: wipe, peel, halve and core peaches and pears. Place in baking dish, sprinkle with sugar and a bit of cinnamon. Add just enough water to prevent burning. Cover baking dish and bake in slow oven until tender. Serve with cream.

Some Notions to Try.
Try baking roasting ears in the oven (moderate oven, 15 minutes) with two layers of husks left on. Fry frying eggplant. Cut the eggplant in strips, dip it in egg and crumbs and fry in hot deep fat until brown. Drain. Serve piping hot.

Write or phone Sally Saver for answers to your food questions, for recipes or for trade names of brands preferred in certain recipes. Care The Constitution, or W.A. 6565.

Suppling Exercises Are Unexcelled For Trimming Down Waistline

By Ida Jean Kain.

Try to think back . . . what did your waistline measure when you were 21 years old? And is it more than three inches more than it used to measure? In case you're hazy as to those figures, get out the tape and compare the bust and waist measurements as they are now. The waist shouldn't be less than eight inches less than the bust.

Unless you can pass one or the other of those waistline tests, the fall fashions spell trouble! If the designers know there is such a thing as a thick waist, there's no indication that they do. All the newest styles focus attention on the slimly tapering waist. It's taken for granted that your waist is a good eight inches less than the bust, maybe nine or 10 inches less.

Such optimism on the part of the designers is bound to result in some unusual activity. You can wait (assuming your waist is a mile over the limit) and let out the seams of your new frock, or you can start now and take some tucks in your own waist. You'll feel and look better for the latter.

First of all, you will acquire a firm feeling in the midsection, instead of the loose sloppy feeling that goes with lazy muscles. Then, suddenly, you will look trimmer, and from then on you can nip the waist in amazingly.

Your exercises will work faster if you can concentrate the movement in the waistline muscles. To keep from moving the shoulders in the stretching exercises, a wand may be held in the upstretched hands. Unscrow the handle of your carpet sweeper and use it as a wand in the following exercise: Stand on the knees on the floor, hips tucked under and arms outstretched overhead. The wand should be grasped near the ends in either hand. Bend sideways, to the left, and, keeping the hips tucked under, the wand straight overhead, slowly sit down at the right of the feet. Try to return to position without lowering the wand.

Here is an exercise that cuts the waste motion down to a minimum: Try to sit on the floor between the legs, the wand stretched overhead. Bend to alternate sides, as far as possible, and see how close you can bring the end of the wand to the floor. Needless to say, that is a difficult exercise. Right at first, you may feel you have accomplished quite a bit if you can sit down on the floor between the legs. First, stand on the knees, feet apart. Have the knees fairly wide apart and make use of the thigh and hip muscles in sitting down. If that is beyond you, stand erect with the feet fairly wide apart, hips tucked under, and bend acutely sideways to place alternate ends of the wand on the floor at the outside of the feet.

If that is beyond you, trim waist, and these suppling exercises can't be excelled for putting tucks in this measurement.

NEW TRIAL GRANTED TO PEE WEE BURNS

Alleged Atlanta Racketeer
Was Convicted on 37
Bribery Counts.

Pee Wee Burns, first alleged Atlanta racketeer convicted after the 1937-38 graft and numbers racket investigation, was granted a new trial, by order of Judge Paul S. Etheridge, of Fulton county superior court, issued August 2, it became known yesterday.

Convicted on 37 counts of bribing former Fulton county deputy sheriffs and city policemen to protect his liquor and lottery operations in 1937, Burns was sentenced to serve 12 months on each count and fined $3,000.

Much of the testimony in the Burns trial was used against Gus H. Howard Jr., former deputy sheriff, whose conviction is now on appeal to the supreme court. The same witnesses also were used in other graft prosecutions.

May Bear on Others. It was regarded yesterday as likely that the new trial granted Burns might have a bearing on the status of the Howard and other convictions now pending on appeal.

Judge Etheridge's order, signed at his home because of a recent illness, held that in certain counts the state failed to prove dates of the alleged crimes, although the indictment set out that the dates were material to the case.

Order Cited. Following is the text of the order: "The motion for new trial as amended in the foregoing case came on for a hearing before me and was after argument submitted to the undersigned trial judge shortly before his extended illness.

"After due consideration, the judgment and order of the court is as follows: "The indictment contains 37 counts and the defendant was convicted and a verdict of guilty rendered by the jury as to each and every count."

"Each and every count charges the defendant with the commission of a misdemeanor on a given date and it is alleged in each count of the indictment:

"The acts charged in this count are separate acts from those charged in other counts of the same indictment, the date herein being material to distinguish this count from the other counts."

Dates Not Proved. "It clearly appears from the brief of evidence that as to several counts of the indictment the proof presented by the state did not establish the dates of the commission of the alleged offenses and as to these counts the verdict of guilty by the jury was unauthorized and as to said counts the defendant is entitled to a new trial.

"There being no provision in the law for the granting of a new trial as to certain counts in an indictment and at the same time for upholding of the conviction as to other counts, it becomes necessary to grant a new trial as to the entire case.

"Wherefore, it is ordered that the defendant's motion for a new trial be, and the same is hereby sustained and a new trial is hereby ordered."

The Burns case, like all others growing out of months of exhaustive probe, was prosecuted by E. E. (Shorty) Andrews, special racketeer prosecutor, Burns was represented by Attorney George Finch and W. R. Bentley.

Informed of the new trial order, Andrews said he had no statement to make.

MUSICAL FILM SEEN AS TREND IN 1940

Republic Pictures President
Discusses Future Plans
During Stop Here.

Trend in motion pictures next year will be back to the musical comedy style, James H. Grainger, president of the Republic Pictures of New York, declared here yesterday during a brief stop.

Action pictures were played out this year, he thinks. At present his company is investing $500,000 in a musical production for 1940 release called "The Hit Parade of 1940," which he thinks will start the musical cycle all over again.

Commenting on the better-than-usual run of movie fare being released by all producers this summer, Grainger said "Many of the producing companies have come to the conclusion that they had to produce first-class screen entertainment to be released for the summer trade."

The company is considering making a picture of the life of General Lee and the Confederacy and, if they do, it is possible that scenes of the Battle of Atlanta will be included.

'ABDUCTED' MAN SHUNS QUESTIONS

Employee Tells of Three Cars of Men Taking Employer Away.

Although he reported to police that he had been abducted from his place of business Tuesday evening, H. B. Bradshaw, proprietor of the Roundhouse restaurant, 21 Kenyon street, yesterday was back at work and refused to discuss the incident and "had no explanation to offer."

Police were told that two men entered the restaurant Tuesday, one of them showing a badge to Bradshaw and ordering him to accompany them. An employee, Paul Austin, said that three automobiles filled with men were parked outside, and that Bradshaw was placed in one of them and driven away.

Bradshaw said that after riding for a long time he was put out of the automobile near East Point and that he returned to the city in a cab. He said that there had been no display of violence, and he was unable to supply a description of the men.

TARZAN AND THE FIRES OF TOHR No 142

With lashing trunk and piercing tusks, Black Malluk kept the guards at bay while Tarzan and his friends scaled the wall of the paddock. By a weaving route, to pass under the track, the Jungle Lord led his companions on a desperate mission to free the pit slaves.

Tarzan climbed the huge gate of the compound and admitted Kalluk and Perry. The way to the slave barracks lay past a guardhouse. The conspirators hoped to pass undetected, but their hopes were quickly blasted. A challenging cry proclaimed a new danger.

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

As the guards streamed out, the brave trio raced for the slave shed. "You go inside," Tarzan instructed O'Rourke, "and free the slaves. The key to their chains hangs on the wall, near the door. Kalluk and I will stay here. We'll do our best to keep the guards back."

The ape-man's plan was born of sheer desperation—a "last chance" scheme with overwhelming odds against success. How could he and Kalluk hope to stem that rushing tide of Tohran swordsmen—he with only a short knife, and poor Kalluk with no weapon at all!

Honest Injun, Dorothy, How Old Are You? FIVE POSTS OPEN IN CITY SERVICE

Dorothy Lamour, film actress who made the sarong famous or vice versa, has been ordered—of all things—to disclose her exact age by New York State Supreme Court Justice Kenneth O'Brien. The ruling was made in a suit against the actress by her former radio and stage voice coach.

Dorothy Lamour Ordered To Tell Her Exact Age by Judge in Suit

Voice Coach Claims That Actress Owes Him $6,000 for Teaching Her Radio, Stage Technique; Also Must Give Full Name.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Dorothy Lamour, the actress, was ordered today by State Supreme Court Justice Kenneth O'Brien to do what a lot of women won't do—disclose her exact age. The ruling was made in a suit by Alfred C. Evans, a musical director and coach, who claims Miss Lamour owes him $6,000 for his services, beginning on November 1, 1934, in teaching her radio and stage voice technique—at a time when she was "little known in the entertainment field." Her defense is that Evans had been fully paid upon her cancellation, "a reasonable time after she reached her majority," of the agreement with him. Thus the date of her birth became a legal issue. The judge also told her she must give her full name and those of her parents. (In the International Motion Picture Almanac she is listed just—Dorothy Lamour, with no middle or other names, and the date of her birth—in New Orleans—is given as December 10, 1914.) Miss Lamour, who was not in court, must file the information in a bill of particulars requested by Evans.

CAMP ON WAY HOME FROM WASHINGTON

New Congressman To Spend Awhile 'Visiting Around in District.'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP)—With five days of congressional life behind him, Georgia's representative, Albert Sidney Camp, packed up today to return to his home at Newnan, Ga.

The 240-pound Georgian arrived here last Friday, took the oath of office a few hours before Saturday's adjournment, and then settled quickly to the business of being a congressman.

The state's fourth district elected him August 1 for the unexpired term of the late Representative E. M. Owen, whom he opposed unsuccessfully in last year's Democratic primary.

He left by train tonight for Newnan, but his Washington office will be open several weeks. His recess schedule, he said, would consist largely of "visiting around in the district."

Unwilling to be classified either as anti-administration or a New Deal 100 per center, Camp has ideas of his own about farm legislation, the distribution of relief money, and various other national issues. For one thing, he complained the south had not received a proper share of the government's huge expenditures.

Before coming to congress, he was first assistant district attorney for Georgia's northern district. His superior was a distant cousin, Lawrence S. Camp, who tried vainly to defeat Senator Walter F. George last year.

Camp, 47 years old, is married and has two children.

'LOVER LANE' DEATH SUSPECT RELEASED

Hoping for 'Lucky Break,' Police Disclose Father Was Insurance Beneficiary.

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Only a "lucky break," investigators said tonight, will solve the mysterious murder of Wanda Dworecki, 17-year-old auburn-haired minister's daughter found strangled and beaten in a lonely "lovers' lane" two days ago.

"I am living in hopes," said Larry C. Doran, chief of Camden county detectives. "I don't know when we will be lucky."

A man taken into custody last night was released today. Doran said neither he nor others questioned, including the girl's father, the Rev. Walter Dworecki, could give a clue to the slayer's identity.

Doran disclosed life insurance policies totaling $2,695 were carried on the girl's life, with her father named as beneficiary of two policies of $1,000 each. In addition, the detectives said, she had a $10,000 accident policy payable to her father as beneficiary under certain conditions.

DIPHTHERIA CLINICS. DALTON, Ga., Aug. 9.—Beginning next week a series of diphtheria clinics, sponsored by the Whitfield county health department, will be held in every section of the county and every child under 10 years of age will be vaccinated free of charge. It was announced today by Dr. Charles F. Engelking, commissioner of health.

To make the institution of marriage a success is one of the major problems of life. A successful marriage does not just happen—it is planned and worked for. A man and a woman may not logically expect a happy and successful marriage unless both partners work at the job of making it a success. Our Service Bureau at Washington has ready for you an intensely interesting and valuable booklet—"Marriage"—which not only reviews the history of the institution of marriage in past ages, but contains concrete suggestions which any young couple will find of value in aiding them to plan a happy and successful mating.
